NO CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD

RAILROAD MAGNATES WON'T VISIT WHITE HOUSE.

IN EMBARRASSING POSITION

OFFICIALS WERE NOT CONSULTED BY MORGAN.

FEAR IT WOULD BE USELESS

President Holds Firmly to Attitude so Clearly Outlined in His Messages to Congress and in Public Addresses—Discord Among Railroad Men.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Messrs. McCrea, Mellen, Hughitt and Newman, the four railroad presidents for whose visit to the White house, J. Pierpont Morgan arranged before his departure for Europe, held a conference here today. The whole situation was canvassed with great care, and it was finally decided not to go to Washington.

It is understood the reason for this conclusion is that the railroad officials did not feel that they had any proper mandate from the railroad corporations to represent them. They felt that they could not assume the position of a self-constituted commission to formulate or present the views of the hundreds of railroad companies which in turn are owned by thousands of shareholders.

Visit Would Be Idle.

They recognized that the railroad managers of the United States are not themselves in perfect accord, and that until some method could be adopted for securing a consensus of opinion, a visit to the president would be idle. At the conclusion of the conference, the four presidents left for their homes.

Thomas F. Ryan, when asked for his opinion about the proposed meeting of the president and the heads of the great railroads said:

"I believe that if Mr. Morgan's visit to the president is followed up as it should be by all of our great business interests it will do much good. I also believe that the president's attitude toward corporations is much misunderstood by the general public. It is unfair to assume that it is his desire to hamper the business interests of the country.

Business Too Active.

"I am, however, convinced that he proposes to enforce the laws as he finds them on the statute books, and I think the sooner the business interests of the country conclude to go to work to aid the president in solving the different problems that confront him every day, the sooner confidence will be restored and the business of the country move on without interruption. So far as general business is concerned, the only fault to be found with it is that it is too active."

E. H. Harriman will leave tomorrow for Virginia to join his family.

Mr. Harriman, in making the announcement of his intention of taking the trip, said that he did not intend to stop at Washington either on his way south or on his return.

Won't Be Invited.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—At a late hour tonight President Roosevelt had received no word from the four railroad presidents who were suggested by J. P. Morgan, on the eve of his departure for Europe, as conferees to discuss with the president the railroad situation and to urge Mr. Roosevelt to take some action to "allay the public anxiety," as to the administration's attitude. The president will not invite Messrs. McCrea, Hughitt, Newman and Mellen to the White house, but if they ask for an appointment the president will be glad to receive them.

The embarrassed position in which the railroad magnates have been placed is due to the fact that Mr. Morgan arranged the conference with the president without consulting the officials

CHEERS GO UP AT CLOSE OF DAY'S BUSINESS.

Congratulations Exchanged Between Those Who Have Successfully Passed Through Declines.

NEW YORK, March 15.—An unusual scene was enacted on the floor of the stock market, which had closed strong and buoyant in sharp contrast to the demoralization of yesterday. Brokers gathered around the trading posts and cheered loudly in demonstration of their relief and satisfaction at today's changes in speculative sentiment from the panicky feeling of yesterday. Congratulations were exchanged all around the room on the fact that the members of the exchange, without exception had successfully passed through the three declines in prices of the last two weeks and hopes were generally expressed that the worst was over.

SENATE PLAYS GAME OF BLUFF

NO PROGRESS MADE IN RAILWAY LAW.

THREE DAYS OF WRANGLING

ADJOURNMENT IS TAKEN UNTIL MONDAY.

DE LA VERGNE IS HOPEFUL

Makes Strong Talk in Favor of Bill Takes Place Among "Common Herd," Unhesitatingly—House Wastes Time—Approves Appropriations.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., March 15.—The senate is engaged in a game of bluff, simply that and nothing more. It has wrangled for three days on the proposed railway law, and has got as far as the ninety-first section. During the first day's discussion 16 sections were disposed of, and the other two days have been used on three sections. During this time the senators have devoted their attention chiefly to trying to compromise the other fellows.

Senator De La Vergne views the situation in a very hopeful manner, notwithstanding the delays and dodgings going on, believing that the senate will pass a strong bill, and that the house will agree to anything that the senate passes. Senator Stephen, on the other hand, thinks no bill will get through. This shows how far apart are the gentlemen who stand within the vortex of oratory and dispute.

Who Are the "Common People."

A contention arose today regarding who were the common people and who really represented them in the senate. The matter was opened by Senator Sapp, who claimed to represent them. Senator Burger of Denver followed in an address, when he showed that he, speaking for the First district, represented five times the common people any outsider could muster. He quoted from an article by President Hadley of Yale to show who were the common people.

Senator Stephen declared that the passing of any stringent rate-making law would practically ruin Colorado Springs, as that city depends almost entirely during the summer upon the tourists. The legislature could not, he asserted, pass a law to compel the railroads to grant rates for tourists, hence the railroads could not, by passing such a law could not be undone.

Senator Wood said the rate-making clause would operate to drive all the buyers of mining machinery and mining supplies to the eastern markets and away from Denver. It would make it easier for the miners to go east than to enter the Denver market. He cites the case of the coal mines of the southern part of Colorado that draw all their supplies of mine props from a small place in New Mexico, from which point they had a good rate, called a "mining supply rate." When the interstate commerce law became operative that rate was withdrawn, so the mines had to get their props from the forests along the Moffat road.

De La Vergne Makes Address.

Rising to make his address upon the bill, Senator De La Vergne spoke as follows:

I beg not intended saying anything on the bill now being discussed, first, because I considered the wrongs complained of at the hands of the railroads of the state the lesser of the numerous evils of which the people are justly complaining. Second, that I felt that some of those asking relief in one direction and opposing relief to the people in another direction were asking that they be made a privileged class. I refer to commercial associations, coal combines and others.

I spent one whole afternoon listening to the arguments on this bill before a committee in the court of appeals room, where the best of the railroad talent and of the commercial associations were presenting their views. It was an interesting argument, and I regret that the minority members were not permitted to be present at that hearing. I think it should have been held in the open session in this chamber, and if it had I am of the opinion that it would have helped the members of this body to get right on the subject now before us, and would have aided members of the senate in seeing clearly what their duty was to the people instead of the corporations.

I emphasize to the senator from the First, Senator Burger, the words "common people," who are being grouped between the upper and nether millstones of selfishness and oppression.

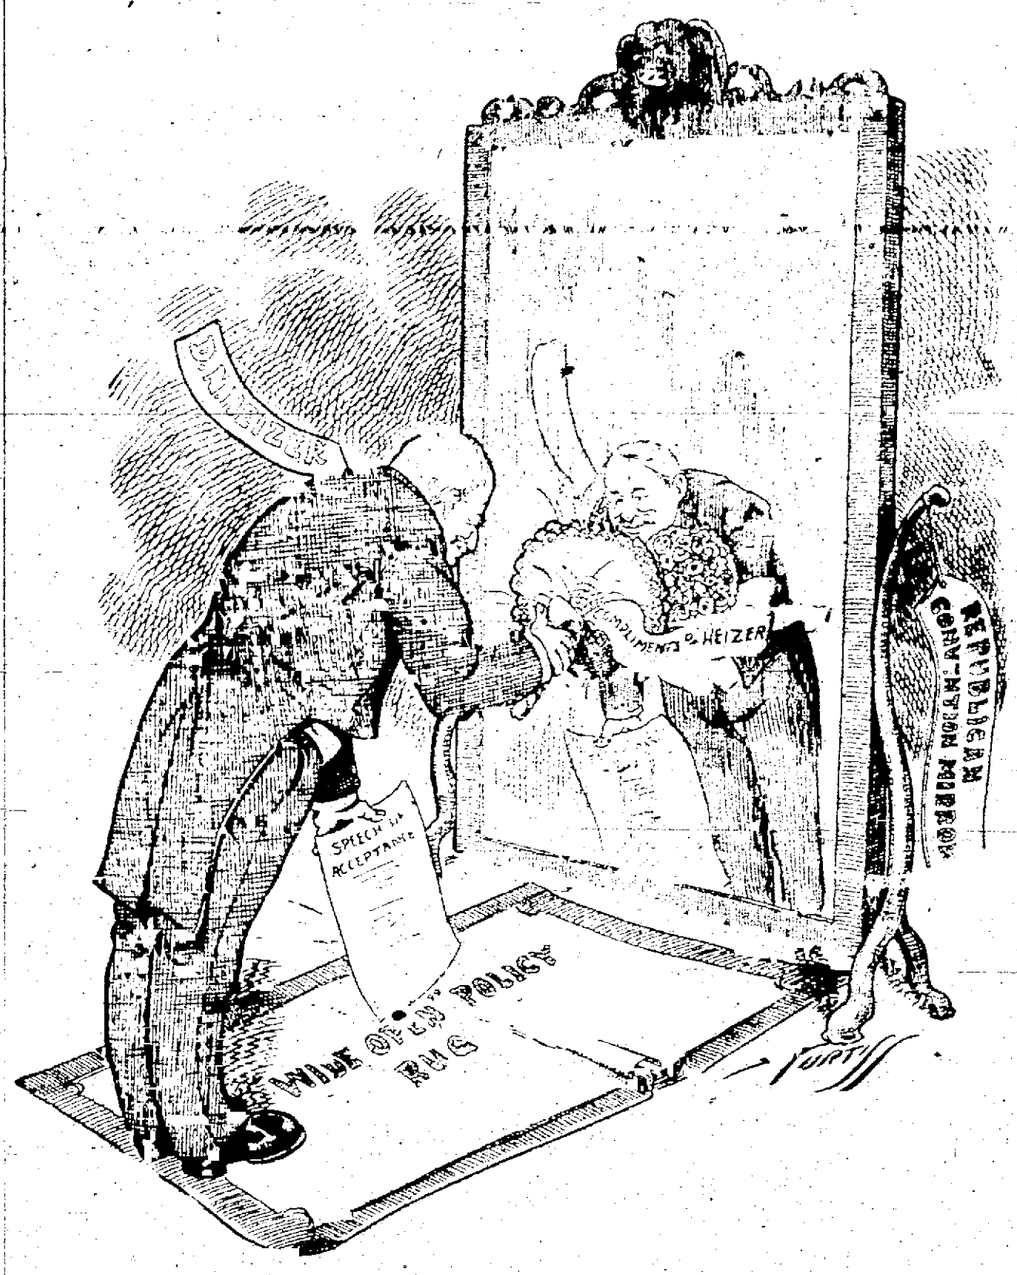

Is Among Common Herd.

I wish to say, Mr. Chairman, that I do not believe in classifying our citizens and I don't know that I care to be classed in any particular division, but if it must be done I will unhesitatingly request that I be classed with the common herd. They are the state's and the nation's stay and support in the time of trouble.

I say, Mr. Chairman, that the senator from the First is inconsistent when he comes before this body and lauds a paper from the commercial association asking that no rate law be enacted in this bill, when he knows that that same association has been before the committees of this legislature asking that certain relief measures be placed in this bill for their interests, and so the same time refusing or opposing those asked for by the people in general of this state, and asking that they, the commercial association, be made a privileged class.

Mr. Chairman it is really pathetic to hear the members of this senate deliver their lamentations over the sufferings and wrongs perpetrated upon those timid and dove-like corporations of the state of Colorado, who

LOSS OF $10,000,000

FLOOD AT PITTSBURG MOST DISASTROUS.

Conditions in Ohio Improving. Principal Rivers and Their Tributaries Falling.

PITTSBURG, March 15. With the rapid receding of the waters in the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio rivers, conditions are resuming normal proportions tonight. The approaches to the bridges now are clear and street car service has been resumed.

At 9 o'clock tonight the rivers had fallen almost 8 feet. At that hour, the stage was 29 feet and dropping six inches an hour.

Ten square miles were inundated. The loss is summarized as follows:

Loss in output of steel mills	$3,000,000
Loss in output of other industries	2,000,000
Loss in wages of employes	1,857,000
Estimated damage to industrial plants	2,500,000
Total	$9,357,000

Various other estimates are being made, ranging from ten to twenty millions of dollars. Reports from numerous western Pennsylvania points tonight are to the effect that the flood has subsided.

Thirty large blast furnaces in this city are out of commission on account of the flood. It is said here that the corporation will end [illegible] of iron.

The power from the plants of the Allegheny Light company was turned in to the trolley wires tonight in an effort to maintain street car service. As a result Pittsburg is in darkness.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 15.—Fire tonight added to the flood losses in the Wheeling district. At Bridgeport, Ohio, opposite Wheeling, time in water set fire to the extensive plant of the Scott lumber company, which was completely destroyed. The fire spread to a number of nearby houses, which were destroyed and the total loss is $150,000.

An explosion of gas at the Warwick Pottery in South Wheeling destroyed the greater part of the plant and threatened many houses in the vicinity, occupied mostly by Syrians. The relief rescued a hundred or more persons from their homes in skiffs, but three Syrian children were drowned. The loss will be over $100,000.

At 2:30 o'clock it is reported that Fire Chief W. G. Claylor was drowned. When the police began to rescue the foreigners from the burning homes in the inundated district many panic-stricken persons jumped from windows into overturned skiffs, which capsized. Several other persons are thought to have been drowned.

The crest of the flood passed this city at 9 p. m. The water reached a stage of almost 50 feet and then began to recede at the rate of one inch an hour.

Every foot of Wheeling Island is submerged and 7,000 residents have been driven to upper floors.

DUTCH TROOPS VICTORIOUS

Nearly Three Hundred Rebels Killed on Island of Celebos, Dutch East Indies.

THE HAGUE, March 15.—An official dispatch received here today from the island of Celebos, Dutch East Indies, announced that the Dutch troops had captured an important rebel stronghold, after a stubborn fight. The fleeing enemy left 280 men dead on the field, among whom were several rebel chiefs.

PROSECUTIONS LIKELY

COAL CARRYING ROADS MAY BE HALED INTO COURT.

Important Conference Between Commerce Commission and Operators and Miners.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—An important conference which is likely to have far reaching results, was held late this afternoon between members of the interstate commerce commission, and representatives of the coal operators and coal miners organizations in southern Indiana and southern Illinois. In addition to a complaint which, as a result of the conference, is to be filed formally with the commission, it is probable that the attorney general will be urged to institute prosecutions against officials of the coal carrying roads in Indiana and Illinois for alleged violation of the Sherman antitrust act.

Present at the conference were Judge Wood of the Indiana railroad commission; John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America; W. D. Ryan, secretary of the Illinois miners organization, and several mine operators of both Indiana and Illinois.

It has been announced by the coal carrying railroads, operating between southern Indiana and southern Illinois points and Chicago and the northwest, that an advance of about ten cents per ton will be made in the freight rates on coal. This advance, it is asserted, will affect seriously both the operators and the miners.

The miners, operators and mine officials desire to confer with the commission respecting the character of the complaint to be brought before the railroad commission of Indiana.

Commissioners Prouty, Harlan and Lane, however, discussed the situation with the delegates. It was decided that as the matter involved interstate commerce, the commission had ample authority to entertain a formal complaint. This complaint will be filed soon.

The delegation will confer with Attorney General Bonaparte regarding starting an action against certain Indiana and Illinois railroads for a violation of the antitrust law.

Mr. Mitchell and his associates also called at the White house and explained the situation in detail to the president.

FOR HEALTH OF PEOPLE

BUCHTEL URGES PASSAGE OF PURE FOOD BILL.

Calls Attention in Letter to House to Sale of Diseased Meats in Small Markets.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., March 15.—Governor Buchtel this afternoon sent a message to the lower house of the Sixteenth general assembly, in the following words:

Denver, Colo., March 15, 1907.

To the Honorable the House of Representatives of the State of Colorado:

Gentlemen—I desire to call the attention of the members of the house of representatives to a serious menace to the public health from the sale in small markets of diseased meat. All the meat which comes from big packing houses, engaged in interstate trade, is inspected by government officials. That fact makes it impossible to sell diseased animals to the big packers. All diseased animals are, therefore, sold to the small slaughtering plants, and this diseased meat is principally for the most part in the small markets throughout the state.

It is said that unscrupulous men are now engaged in the business of slaughtering and marketing cattle which are suffering from lumpy jaw, tuberculosis and other diseases. It is now known that tubercle bacilli of the bovine type are particularly virulent for men. We have absolutely no inspection of these small plants, and diseased animals are slaughtered and made ready for market. No provision is made for this inspection in the newly-enacted pure food law.

Mr. Cannon's house bill No. 87 provides for the prohibition of slaughtering for human food of diseased animals. I had hoped that this bill might be passed, and that I might have opportunity to sign it within ten days from the day it was introduced, and thus provide immediately for the state inspection which is contemplated in that bill. The appropriation asked in the bill is only $3,000. If the appropriation asked were ten times as much we ought to make haste to enact this law. We can not be too solicitous of the health of the people.

The city of Denver is about to make a new departure in its entire program of inspection of meats and milk. All the cities and towns in the state will receive direct benefit from this contemplated inspection of slaughtering establishments. It is imperatively necessary for the health of the people, and I sincerely hope it may please the honorable house of representatives to take the bill out of committee and pass it at an early day. Yours with the utmost respect for the good of Colorado,

HENRY A. BUCHTEL,
Governor.

Mr. Winans wired acceptance.

COURT ADMITS HUMMEL STORY

JEROME SCORES A VICTORY OVER DELMAS.

STATE IS ALMOST THROUGH

PROSECUTION NEARLY READY TO REST ITS CASE.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY ALL IN

Questions of Admissibility of Damaging Affidavit Alleged to Have Been Signed by Mrs. Thaw Pending—Hummel Humiliated on Witness Stand.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Attorney Delmas fighting hard every inch of the way, District Attorney Jerome today secured from Abraham Hummel his complete story as to the affidavit which it is alleged Evelyn Nesbit Thaw made in the lawyer's office in 1903, charging Harry K. Thaw with hearing her when she had told him that the statement that Stanford White had drugged and ruined her was not true.

Mr. Delmas first objected broadly to all of Hummel's testimony, then offered a specific objection to each question put by the prosecution. Justice Fitzgerald overruled every objection and Mr. Delmas made exceptions.

Mrs. Thaw Called.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was called to the stand in the effort of the defense to keep Hummel silent. She declared she had called upon Hummel in his professional capacity and to ask his advice as a lawyer. Stanford White had taken her to the lawyer's office with that end in view.

Justice Fitzgerald declared that, admitting the proposition of counsel and client, Mrs. Thaw herself had waived the professional privilege by taking the stand early in the case and giving her version of what transpired at Hummel's office. The bond of secrecy once removed could not be reestablished.

Unsuccessful in blocking Hummel's testimony, Delmas cross-examined the witness and brought from his own lips the fact that he had been convicted in December, 1903, on a charge of conspiracy in the same court room in which Thaw is being tried. He further adjudged that two indictments for subornation of perjury are pending against him, and that one of these indictments charges him with having caused a false affidavit to be made.

Mr. Jerome protested against the witness "being dragged through the humiliating details" of his trial, but Justice Fitzgerald declined to interfere.

Hummel Is Humiliated.

Then Mr. Delmas asked Hummel if he had not heard the speech made by District Attorney Jerome where sentence was about to be imposed; when Mr. Jerome urged the court to pass the longest and heaviest sentence within its power upon Hummel, as "he had been a menace to the community for 20 years." Justice Fitzgerald finally sustained an objection to this, and Hummel was not compelled to answer.

Mr. Delmas wanted to know if Hummel had any more recent business transactions with the district attorney, and asked it Mr. Jerome was pressing the charges against him.

"He certainly is," said the witness with spirit.

Hummel's testimony in brief was to the effect that Evelyn Nesbit told him among other things that Thaw had beaten her when she refused to sign papers he had prepared, charging Stanford White with betrayal; that he had dictated a statement to a stenographer in the presence of Miss Nesbit and Stanford White; that he gave the affidavit to two of his clerks to take to Miss Nesbit in the Madison Square Garden to-day and that the next day the paper was returned to him with Evelyn Nesbit's signature attached. He kept the affidavit until after Miss Nesbit called one day and demanded it.

Witness Contradicts Himself.

Hummel first said he had himself arranged for photographing the affidavit. A few minutes later however, he completely contradicted himself on this point, saying he did not make the arrangements. After Stanford White had the copy, he returned the original of the affidavit, the photographic negatives and the prints made from the negatives, to Hummel, who swore today that he subsequently delivered the original affidavit to Miss Nesbit and has never seen it since.

Abraham Snydecker, one of Hummel's clerks, was called, and said he took the affidavit to Mr. White's rooms in the tower and handed it to the woman pointed out to him as Miss Nesbit. She kept the affidavit for five minutes and signed it, saying she had read it through.

At the conclusion of this testimony District Attorney Jerome asked permission to introduce the carbon and photographic copies of the affidavit in evidence. It was near the closing hour and Mr. Delmas asked that adjournment be taken before arguing as to the admissibility of the affidavit. He said that after reading the paper he might not object to its being offered in evidence. "Coming as it does," he added, "in such questionable

CONSTITUTION FOR OKLAHOMA

GUTHRIE CONVENTION COMES TO A CLOSE.

WAS IN SESSION 115 DAYS

SUBMITTED TO PEOPLE AT SPECIAL ELECTION, AUGUST 6.

MANY IMPORTANT MEASURES

Stringent Liquor Law Provided For. Succession in State Offices Prohibited—U. S. Senators Nominated by Primaries—No "Jim Crow" Provision.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 15.—The only state constitution to be produced under modern conditions that intended for the proposed new state of Oklahoma—has finally been drafted here. The constitutional convention finished its work today and adjourned after having been in session 115 days. The constitution will be submitted to the people of the new territory at a special election on August 6.

One of the last acts of the convention was to appoint a committee to solicit funds to pay the expenses of the session, the convention having exhausted all the money appropriated by congress.

The convention was overwhelmingly Democratic.

No "Jim Crow" Provision.

Probably the most important measure killed by the convention was the provision relative to separate coaches for whites and negroes, although the Democrats had been pledged to insert it. Several delegates alleged on the convention floor that President Roosevelt would reject the constitution if the "jim crow" provision were adopted.

Woman suffrage was defeated by a few votes.

The initiative and referendum, patterned after the Oregon law, was adopted, as was a provision providing for the nomination of all state officers and United States senators by primaries.

Succession in state offices is prohibited, and it is provided that the senate committees shall not be named by the lieutenant governor, but be selected by the body itself.

Strictly Prohibition.

Oklahoma will be a prohibition state, the most stringent liquor law in existence, prohibiting not only the sale, but the introduction of liquor into the state being provided for.

Provision is made for a state railway commission to be elective, and a two-cent passenger fare order.

Railway companies are prohibited from owning any productive agency of a natural commodity, a provision particularly intended to cover coal lands.

A fellow servant law is embodied in the constitution.

Corporations are prohibited from owning more land than is absolutely necessary in the operation of their business.

Affecting Corporations.

The issuance of water in the stock is prohibited and the books of all corporations are made subject to inspection at all times.

The organization of corporations to deal in real estate outside of incorporated cities is prohibited.

A commission is appointed to negotiate the purchase of the segregated mineral lands in the Indian Territory, valued at many millions of dollars, and state ownership and operation of the coal mines therein is contemplated.

The legal rate of interest is fixed at 6 per cent and the contract rate at 10 per cent.

A compulsory and separate school system is established.

The state is divided into 77 counties, 21 judicial districts, 41 senatorial districts and 105 legislative districts. The state seal adopted is a combination of the present seal of Oklahoma and the seals of the nations of the five civilized tribes.

A majority vote is required to amend the constitution.

If Roosevelt Doesn't Run, Commoner Will Be the Next President, Says Bostonian.

BOSTON, March 15.—The Democratic state committee today gave a dinner in honor of W. J. Bryan. Among the guests were George Fred Williams, of Boston, who in a speech referred to Mr. Bryan as the "acknowledged leader of the national Democratic party."

Speaking directly to Mr. Bryan, he said:

"I have no right, sir, to place you in the position of a candidate for office until you have authorized it, but I take no undue advantage of my position and believe I represent the sentiment of the Massachusetts Democracy when I say that the success of our party rests upon your shoulders, whether you will have it or not.

AN IMPORTANT ORDER

TO EXPEDITE ISSUANCE OF LAND PATENTS.

Secretary of Interior Garfield Following Out Ideas of President Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Secretary Garfield of the department of the interior today issued an order to Commissioner Ballinger of the general land office intended to expedite to the utmost the issuance of patents to 30,000 entrymen whose applications have accumulated in the general land office. The order is based on President Roosevelt's recent action making easier the process of "proving up" under the law. It directs the commissioner of the land office "to take up for action all locations, selections and entries upon which final certificate has been issued, and, if the proof is found complete, and there is no pending protest or objection, the same will be passed to patent in the regular order."

"The local offices," continued the order, "will proceed in accordance with their circular of December 7, 1905, governing the manner of giving notice of final proofs and the action taken thereon. You will furnish them maps defining the mineral areas within their respective districts as soon as they are provided by the geological survey.

"All locations, selections and entries of lands in nonmineral areas will be considered by the local officers under the above circular with a view to final action by them and the issuance of final certificate in the regular order.

"Locations, selections and entries for lands in the mineral areas may be made under existing rules, but shall not pass to final certificate or approval except upon the report of a field officer.

"You will instruct local officers that it is equally their duty to facilitate the issuance of final certificates to bonafide settlers, as to guard the interests of the public and government in preventing illegal entries, and that, in the performance of their duties, they will be held to strict account for the exercise of sound discretion and good judgment. It is expected that registers and receivers in their respective districts will obtain knowledge of the general character and quality of the public land over which their jurisdiction extends, and in the disposition of cases before these officers, they should make use of such knowledge, either in aiding the entrymen or in preventing an illegal entry, as the case may be.

"In accordance with the conference which we have had, you will at once take such action as is necessary to so organize your field and office force, either by way of redistribution or concentration, as will make it possible to most effectually carry out the order of the president.

"All regulations or instructions in conflict herewith are revoked."

In discussing the order, Secretary Garfield said:

"This order is one of unusual importance to the citizens of the public land states, involving as it does about 30,000 entries and a large number of locations and selections, which have accumulated in the general land office pending examination before the issuance of patents. Included in these are about 20,000 homesteads, 7,000 timber and stone and other cash entries made under specific laws, 2,000 desert land and 500 mineral entries.

"To bring the work up to date the clerical force of the general land office is working overtime and will be employed fully ten weeks.

"The order does not affect coal land areas, but these will be covered immediately by subsequent orders and directions.

"Because of the failure of congress to provide an additional appropriation for the necessary field inspections, the work can not proceed as rapidly as desired, but the force and means now available will be used to the utmost limit to expedite the patenting of lands where the entrymen have complied with the law in good faith."

WASHINGTON, March 15.—It practically has been decided by Secretary Straus to appoint J. L. Benton, a young business man of Monticello, Ga., as a special agent of the department to go abroad and investigate the market for cottonseed products.

no Republican, unless he be more radical than the president, can prevent the election of William J. Bryan to the presidency."

The dinner followed a reception at which about 200 Democrats were introduced to Mr. Bryan. Among them was former United States Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota.

An address by Mr. Bryan followed. Taking up the story that he wrote the Democratic platform of 1896, Mr. Bryan declared he wrote but little of it, and deserved little of the credit, but he had had more to do with the platform of 1900.

"I think," said Mr. Bryan, "that if we had had a vote unpurchased and unintimidated in 1896, I would have been elected by an overwhelming majority.

"I shall not discuss the amount of fraud perpetrated in 1896, but we had against us the largest corruption fund that ever was used in a campaign."

No one, he said, rejoiced more than he in the vindication that has come to Democratic ideas. Far dearer to him than any office was the triumph of the things for which they had been fighting.

"And I rejoiced," added Mr. Bryan, "that I never lose any opportunity to thank the president for what he has done. The president was one of my opponents. No one ever used harsher language than he toward our cause. Yet I want no man to anticipate me in a hearty commendation of anything he does that I believe is right.

"The Republican party has been in power for ten years with undisputed rule. We find the Republican party not so popular today. The party has gone on the toboggan slide so that it has just one man whom it regards as popular enough to be the candidate for president. Why is it that the president alone has escaped the paralysis that has fallen upon all the rest. There is only one explanation and that is his popularity is due to the following of Democratic doctrines."

Mr. Bryan charged that the slump in stocks of which the men in high finance complained, was caused by the very men who are now complaining.

"If I may venture a prediction" he added, "I would say that in the fight that is coming, the Democratic party will be looked upon as the protector of the small investor against the manipulation of the sharks that have power in Wall Street."

DECISION AGAINST STANDARD

Court Declares Existence of Route From Chicago to St. Louis Has Been Proven.

CHICAGO, March 15.—The contention of the attorneys for the Standard Oil company that the government, which is now prosecuting the company on indictments charging it with accepting rebates has not proven the existence of the route by which it is claimed the alleged shipments in violation of the law had been made, were today swept away by Judge Landis in the United States district court.

The court declared the government had proven the existence of a route by the Chicago and Alton from Whiting, Ind., and Chappell, Ill., to St. Louis. He also declared that the omission of the name of Chappell from the tariff sheet did not invalidate that tariff as applied to the Standard Oil case.

It was asserted by the attorneys for the defendant company that the company had not shown sufficient publication of the tariff sheet. Judge Landis declared that the publication had been shown as far as necessary to warrant a prosecution of the present case.

A decision in favor of the Standard meant that the government would be prevented from producing further evidence.

The decision that the existence of the freight route had been established opened the way for the introduction by the government of evidence to the effect that freight had been handled for the oil company in the illegal manner charged in the indictments and this phase of the trial was at once entered upon.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—Eugene Engley, J. E. Ferguson, G. P. Nevitt and J. M. Brinson, representing the nominees of the Democratic and Socialistic parties, applied today to Judge Owens, of the district court, for an alternative writ of mandamus, to compel City Clerk E. M. Turner to accept the list of nominations made by both parties, which he has refused to do. The writ is made returnable by a stipulation of the attorneys, before Judge Seeafor, in Colorado Springs, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

for whom he asked the audience. It is known that within the last few days, President McCrea of the Pennsylvania, communicated with the president and made it clear that, while he did not want to show any discourtesy, he did not want to be placed in the attitude of rushing to the White house to make a plea for executive clemency. Since so much publicity has been given the proposed conference, it is the general belief in official circles that the railroad appointment arranged by Mr. Morgan.

President's Attitude Known.

The president's policies have been outlined so clearly in his messages to congress and in public addresses," said a member of the interstate commerce commission today, "that it is possible that the railroad presidents have decided that their visit to the White house would be useless. President Hughitt, one of Mr. Roosevelt's personal friends, has on several occasions discussed the railroad situation with the president, and he knows that the administration has no desire to punish the 'good railroad corporations' simply because the 'bad railroad corporation' refuse to abide by the laws regulating common carriers."

Governor Deneen and Attorney General Stead of Illinois, who were invited to Washington by the president, arrived tonight and will call at the White house tomorrow. While Governor Deneen refuses to discuss the object of his conference with the president, it can be stated on good authority that the Chicago and Alton and other disclosures brought out at the recent Harriman investigation will be discussed, and the situation in general will be gone over.

BROKERS ARE JUBILANT

the values of securities is as much a mystery to me as it can be to any one. I know that public confidence has been disturbed, but I do not think that it should have been in any such measure as to justify so great a fall in prices. With genuine, overwhelming prosperity throughout the country, there certainly seems no adequate reason for it. As for myself and my associates, our faith in the future of the country has not been shaken at all, and we have been buyers and not sellers throughout the past ten days. Throughout these troubles we have done and are doing all we can to restore and maintain public confidence. It is very clear to me that the people who are throwing away their securities at panic prices will sorely regret it within the next six months."

Market Opens Strong.

Today's market opened very strong at much higher prices than yesterday's closing figures, Reading leading with a rise of 11 points. Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific also were buoyantly strong and with Reading practically the whole list took a sharp upward movement. It was known in Wall Street that bankers had reached their offices early and that a careful investigation of the situation did not reveal any cause of anxiety as to the solvency of any banking or brokerage house. This knowledge had much effect on sentiment, and together with the announcement of government relief for the money market, gave the traders confidence. The trading continued active with the general tone firm throughout.

At the close the market leaders showed the following advances from yesterday's close: Amalgamated Copper 13; American Smelting 10 3-4; Anaconda 9 1-2; Atchison 4 3-8; Canadian Pacific 8 1-2; St. Paul 9 3-4; Great Northern 6 1-4; New York Central 5 1-4; Missouri Pacific 6 1-2, Northern Pacific 5 3-4, Pennsylvania 6 3-4. Reading 12 1-4; Southern Pacific 4 1-2; Union Pacific 11 1-4; U. S. Steel 5 1-2, U. S. Steel preferred 3 1-8.

"Bargain Hunters" Invest.

All through the day there was heavy buying by "bargain hunters," for investment, and their purchases were heavy enough to strengthen the market each time the prices weakened. Hundreds of thousands of shares are believed to have been taken by these purchasers.

There were the usual rumors in circulation today, but not much attention was paid to them. One was that E. H. Harriman had lost control of Union Pacific. Instant denial was given the report and it had no influence on the trading, Union Pacific continuing strong at the close.

WICHITA MERCHANTS LOSE

Verdict in Favor of Rock Island Instruction of Judge.

TOPEKA, Kas., March 15.—In the United States court at Wichita today, Judge Pollock instructed the jury to bring in a verdict in favor of the Rock Island railway in the case of the Wichita merchants against the company. The merchants alleged that the company's rate on cotton goods from Galveston to Wichita was discriminative and unreasonable, as it was more than double the rate to Kansas City, which is farther from Galveston than is Wichita.

The court held that the published rate of the company is reasonable and that had the company accepted payment which had been offered by the merchants on the basis of the Kansas City rate, both parties would have been liable to criminal prosecution under the antirebate statute.

MEXICO MAY BAR THE JAPS

Abatement of Wholesale Immigration Will Be Attempted.

EL PASO, Tex., March 15.—So great has been the influx of Japanese through this port that hundreds have stopped in El Paso, readily securing employment as house servants, displacing Mexican help. The result is that the Mexican authorities are taking cognizance of the matter and propose action looking to the abatement of Japanese immigration unless the new amendment to the United States immigration laws brings relief.

An immigration inspector stated tonight that every vessel from the orient and the Hawaiian Islands arriving at Manzanillo, Mexico, brought from 300 to 1,000 Japanese, and that since Mexico had facilitated the entry into this country, it was not a matter of much surprise that they should suffer in consequence.

have no bodies to be kicked or souls to be damned; one would think that they could be frightened from the state of Colorado like a flock of blackbirds from your corral.

Value of El Paso County.

The senator from the Twenty-eighth complains bitterly of the reflections cast upon his town by Representative Dolph. Then in his remarks states that the city of Colorado Springs is supported by tourist trade. If the senator will refer to the state auditor's report, which is before me, he will see the county of El Paso is assessed for twenty-three and one-half millions of dollars, there being only two other counties in the state having a greater valuation. Will the senator presume to state or infer that the tourists are added in this high assessed valuation, or has the county of El Paso a real substantial value?

In reference to the platform I wish to state that I have stood with and for platform measures, but on account of bad faith in others we are now here before this body of senators free and working together as senators, both majority and minority members, to enact a conservative railroad bill, and I am satisfied that this body, regardless of party will make a bill satisfactory to the people of this state.

At the close of the day's dispute, the senate adjourned over to Monday morning, by the following vote:

Yeas—Adams, Alexander, Barela, Bohn, Burger, Clayton, Ehrhart, Fry, Harris, Jefferson, Jones, Kennedy, Lewis, Millard, Robertson, Scott, Stephen, Tobin, Wood—19.

Nays—Anfenger, Bardwell, Booth, Button, Campbell, De La Vergne, De Long, Drake, Harrison, McCarthy, Parks, Sapp, Taylor—13.

This will give unlimited opportunity for conferences with those desirous of having something to say regarding the sort of railway legislation that is to their best interests. It will be noticed that many of those Democrats, upon whom dependence was placed for getting the bill through, voted for the adjournment.

House Wastes Time.

The house wasted nearly all of its morning in discussing a memorial to congress concerning the election of United States senators by direct vote. Messrs. Kelly, Vincent and Kemnted in the arguments. The waste of time would have been longer if the previous question had not been demanded by Mr. Dolph. As soon as it was over, Mr. Hurd declared that hereafter he would vote for every motion made to adjourn. He had insisted upon the house doing work, but if the hours were to be taken up in so utterly useless a manner he would hereafter try to get time to go down town, as he preferred loafing about the streets to listening to such senseless debate.

Two bills of minor importance got through second reading. These were to permit county commissioners to levy taxes for advertising purposes, and to compel hospitals and asylums to report to the state board of charities and corrections. Three hours were taken up in arguments over a bill to keep pure the water in the rivers of the state, and then it was killed.

Reports on Appropriations in Senate.

The Democratic members of the assembly are growling complainingly in their tents. The committees having in charge the roads and bridges appropriations have doled out the funds, and the Democrats do not get a cent. Reports were made in the senate today on a number of bills. The insane asylum will be allowed $130,000, and will have $60,000 more for cottages; the agricultural college gets reduced appropriations, but will have $5,000 for the horse experimental station if the government will give $10,000; the committee favors the proposed state geological survey, and gives $2,000 for surveying the old Santa Fe trail. The house committee on roads and bridges has allowed $4,000 for a road in Teller county.

The reapportionment bill is creating all kinds of trouble. The Denver delegation has secured its appropriation for the making of a drive up the Platte, but to do so has had to concede the loss of a place on several of the "float" representative districts that have heretofore helped Denver get a large representation. But this involved a return to the plan of united Denver, Adams and Arapahoe counties in one district, to which the people of the other two counties are protesting in droves. A delegation of Littleton merchants appealed tonight to the Denver men to have the counties set off by themselves.

At the special session of the house, tonight, the bills reported by the house committee on appropriations was made a special order of business. The appropriations, which were approved, are as follows:

Penitentiary	$200,000
Reformatory	77,000
Soldiers home	61,000
Industrial school for boys	130,000
Girls' school	30,500
Deaf and Blind school	11,200

The other subjects covered by the appropriations were: Penitentiary, for general repairs, $12,000; for insane ward, $18,000; for the purchase of land, $2,500.

Soldiers and Sailors home—Cottages, $5,000; laundry, $5,000; addition to hospital, $5,000.

Normal School at Greeley—Library, $35,000.

Deaf and Blind School—To complete building, $5,000; for a new pipe organ, $3,000; for purchase of lands, $1,200.

School of Mines—For a gymnasium, $5,000.

New normal school at Durango, $25,000.

New normal school at Grand Junction, $25,000.

Repairs of the capitol, $65,000; work on the capitol dome, etc., $73,970.37.

Attorneys in the Colorado-Kansas water suit, $18,500.

Fish hatchery on the Rio Grande $5,000; residence at hatchery at Glenwood Springs, $1,000; improvements at Durango hatchery, $500; fish ponds in state, $600.

Completion of the pioneer monument, $10,000.

Refunding errors made in levying inheritance taxes, $1,107.48.

Paying Garcia warrants, $150; D. S. Butler warrant, $30; refunding to John H. Shaw, $500.

were improved today by falling rivers and their tributaries. The Muskingum river, which submerged parts of Zanesville and other towns in that section, continues to fall, but there is considerable destitution among those driven from their homes by the flood.

At Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton and other points in the Miami valley, the danger stage has been passed. While headwaters of the Ohio river are receding streams at Point Pleasant, Portsmouth, Marietta, Parkersburg and other points are now above the flood stage and will continue to rise tonight and tomorrow. In Cincinnati the local rise has about disappeared.

Late today Marietta, Parkersburg, Point Pleasant and Portsmouth were feeling the effects of the flood. Parkersburg and Marietta appeared to be the worst sufferers. At the former place the electric light plant was put out of commission and the city was in darkness.

At Marietta conditions were worse than in the flood of 1884. The rivers rose rapidly and did much damage.

HIGH WATER CLAIMS VICTIMS

Seven Drowned at Athens, Ohio.—Ten Foreigners Perish at Steubenville.

ATHENS, O., March 15.—The high waters of the Hocking river have claimed seven lives in this city and four elsewhere in the county. Those drowned in Athens are:

EDWARD SWEET.
ALBERT SWEET.
— TURNER AND WIFE.
— YOUNG.
CHARLES BEHARS.
OTTO BARTH.

Late Wednesday night the roadway of the Baltimore & Ohio railway, north of the river, broke, allowing the waters to rush into Athens. Fifty houses were swept entirely away. A thousand persons are homeless and are being cared for in churches and halls.

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 15.—At least six and perhaps ten members of two foreign families were drowned today in the flood at Mingo Junction, according to a report received tonight. The houses floated away with their occupants. Every house on the east side of Mingo Junction is submerged and 1,000 persons are homeless.

TO HARNESS THE MONSOON.

Scheme to Utilize Its Energy to Run Bombay Cotton Mills.

From the New York Evening Post.

This is not the only country which has large water power engineering plans on hand. There is a project under way in Bombay which literally aims at harnessing the Indian monsoon and utilizing the resultant energy in running the cotton mills of Bombay and other factories in the adjacent districts.

The Western Ghauts or mountains, forty-three miles from Bombay, are among the rainiest districts of the world; even during the famine years 1896-7, when thousands of people were perishing elsewhere because of the lack of rain, the inhabitants of the Ghauts district were nearly ruined by a rainfall of from twenty-two to twenty-six feet for the wet season June to October.

This speedily drains off to the sea. Hence it is proposed to build three great dams, thus utilizing three of the many valleys as reservoirs, an undertaking made all the easier by the stony formation, which does away with the necessity of artificial floors in the proposed reservoirs.

How steep the approach is appears from the fact that there will be a descent of 1,750 feet in less than two and one-half miles. At the base of the mountains will be a great power station, from which the electricity generated will be transmitted to Bombay and other points. The largest dam will be ninety-five feet high and 8,000 feet long; the second will have a length of 4,500 feet and the third of 2,640 feet.

"RESCUE CHAMBERS" UNDERGROUND

The Austrian law compels mine owners to build "rescue chambers" underground. The rooms must be large enough to hold at least 24 people, and must be provided with tinned food, medicine chest, first aid material, inhalation apparatus and compressed oxygen in cylinders sufficient to last at least three days.

shape, we may deem it best to have the paper go in evidence."

Medical Testimony Complete.

District Attorney Jerome completed his medical testimony in the morning, Attorney Delmas for the defense declining to cross-examine any of the experts. Dr. Flint, who testified yesterday, was excused, and then five other alienists were called, one after another. Each said he was familiar with the hypothetical questions framed by the defense and by the prosecution. Basing their opinions on those questions they all declared that Thaw the night he shot and killed Stanford White, knew the nature and quality of his act and knew that the act was wrong. One question was put by Mr. Hartridge, of the defense, to Dr. Wm. Mabon, the last of the state's experts.

"Do doctors disagree as to the form of a man's insanity," he asked.

Mr. Jerome's objection was overruled and Dr. Mabon replied:

"They do."

Mr. Jerome announced that when the matter of the admissibility of the Hummel affidavit is disposed of, the prosecution will rest.

"The defense, however, will not," said Mr. Delmas, and he further intimated that more experts will be called by him on surrebuttal.

When court reconvened after the luncheon recess, Mr. Hartridge said he would withdraw the question asked Dr. Mabon.

"Then there is no cross-examination?" queried Mr. Jerome.

"None," said Mr. Hartridge.

"In that case, your honor," said Mr. Jerome to Justice Fitzgerald, "we come back to the question as to whether or not Abraham Hummel was acting as attorney for Evelyn Nesbit at the time he was testifying about yesterday."

"Call Evelyn Nesbit Thaw," commented Mr. Delmas.

Mrs. Thaw Is Called.

Mrs. Thaw soon appeared from the witness room and took her place in the chair. Mr. Delmas called Mrs. Thaw's attention to the fact that she had already testified as to visiting Hummel's office with Stanford White.

"Did you," he said, "then and there call upon him in a professional capacity with a view to having his legal advice as a counselor at law?"

District Attorney Jerome promptly objected on the ground that the witness had already been fully examined on this subject.

Justice Fitzgerald overruled the objection, and Mrs. Thaw said: "I did," referring to her call upon Hummel in his professional capacity.

Mrs. Thaw thereupon left the stand.

Justice Fitzgerald further ruled that the defense could not now plead the professional privilege in bar of Hummel's testimony for the privilege was involuntarily waived when young Mrs. Thaw took the stand and told of the occurrence in Hummel's office.

Jerome then summoned Hummel to the stand.

"When Evelyn Nesbit called upon you at your office, did she not tell you that Thaw had begged her to sign and swear to documents he had prepared charging Stanford White with her betrayal and that when she had told Thaw it was not so, he beat her?" asked Jerome.

Mr. Delmas objected to the question.

Justice Fitzgerald overruled the objection.

"Yes," said Hummel.

"Did you thereafter and in the presence of Evelyn Nesbit, dictate to a stenographer?"

Mr. Delmas objected on the ground that the question was irrelevant, already having been sworn to by Miss Nesbit.

Jerome said he remembered that Mrs. Thaw had sworn that she heard the dictation and withdrew the question.

"Can you recall what was dictated?" asked Jerome.

"I can."

"Was the dictation subsequently reduced to writing?"

"Yes."

Hadn't Time to Object.

Mr. Delmas protested that the quick answers of the witness did not permit him to object. He asked that the last question be stricken out.

Justice Fitzgerald ordered this done and Mr. Delmas offered an objection to the question as immaterial.

Justice Fitzgerald asked if the dictated statement had been reduced to writing in Miss Nesbit's presence.

"No, sir," said Jerome, who then temporarily abandoned the question upon which the objection was offered, and asked Mr. Hummel if he could recall to which one of the stenographers he had dictated the statement.

"I can not," he replied.

Mr. Jerome handed to Hummel a copy of the affidavit Evelyn Nesbit is said to have made in his office, and asked if he had ever seen it before.

"Yes, sir," in my office," replied Hummel.

Mr. Delmas objected to the whole line of examination, was overruled and noted exceptions.

The regular afternoon recess of fifteen minutes was ordered during Mr. Jerome's examination of Hummel. Hummel identified the photographic copy of the affidavit as having been made from the original.

Jerome then turned the witness over for cross-examination.

Delmas Cross-Questions Hummel.

After questioning the witness as to his business relations with Stanford White, Mr. Delmas asked:

"How long have you known Mr. Jerome?"

"Twenty years."

"When was your last business transaction with him?"

"I think I understand what you mean," replied Hummel. "It was in this very court room, in December, 1905."

"And you were ?"

"Yes, I was on trial."

"And you were sentenced here on a conviction obtained against you on an indictment for conspiracy presented by District Attorney Jerome?"

"Yes."

"We admit the witness was convicted of a misdemeanor," interrupted Mr. Jerome, "but I submit the details of that humiliating incident are not proper cross-examination questions."

Justice Fitzgerald allowed Mr. Delmas to proceed.

"When you were sentenced," said Mr. Delmas, "did you not hear the remarks made by Jerome asking the court to inflict the longest and heaviest penalty possible upon you as you had been a menace to the community for twenty years?"

Mr. Jerome renewed his objection to this and was sustained.

"I do not want to put the district attorney on the stand unless he makes it necessary," said Mr. Delmas, who then turned again to the witness and said:

"Now, Mr. Jerome—"

A wave of laughter swept the court room. Hummel, the district attorney and Mr. Delmas all joined in the merriment over the mistake.

There are two other indictments—for subornation of perjury—pending against you, Mr. Hummel?" asked Delmas.

"Yes."

"Is Mr. Jarome urging a speedy trial of you on the two indictments for fenoly?"

Mr. Jerome objected, and, addressing the court, said:

"Will your honor admit that?"

Justice Fitzgerald said he would, and Mr. Hummel said his trial had been stopped on account of his appeal, the two pending indictments involving the same transactions as the conviction for conspiracy.

"If the purpose of this line of examination is proper," remarked Mr. Jerome, "but I would like to be allowed to go on the stand and show the status of the case."

"The district attorney has a perfect right to call any witness, including himself," replied Mr. Delmas.

"What is the penalty involved if you are convicted on the pending indictments?" asked Mr. Delmas of Hummel.

"The maximum penalty is five years on each."

Mr. Delmas next brought out from Hummel that he had been disbarred from practicing law in 1872 on charges of bribery. Hummel declared he was restored after two years. The witness admitted that he is now under suspension and a petition for his disbarment is pending.

Snydecker Called.

Hummel was then excused and Abraham Snydecker, one of his clerks, and a notary, was called.

[illegible] with Jacobsen, he had taken the original copy of the affidavit to the Madison Square Garden, to where he was shown into an upper room. He handed the affidavit to Miss Nesbit, who held it in her hand for five minutes, more or less, and then signed it.

"I asked her if she had read it, and she said 'Yes,'" went on the witness, "and then I signed my name as notary."

On cross-examination, Snydecker said he did not know whether the room in which the paper was signed was an office or a bedroom. It had two chairs, he remembered.

Snydecker said he had never seen Evelyn Nesbit before that evening or since.

He said he had been in Hummel's employ up to the time of the latter's suspension from practice.

Snydecker was excused and District Attorney Jerome immediately tendered copies of the affidavit in evidence.

Mr. Delmas said he was not prepared to state whether or not the defense would offer any objection to admitting the copies of the affidavit in evidence. He would like, however, to have the opportunity of examining the paper and consulting with his associates before committing himself, and therefore moved an adjournment be taken until Monday morning.

"Whether I shall object to this paper going into evidence," continued Mr. Delmas, "is debatable in my mind. Coming as it does in such questionable shape, I am not sure but what it would be better to have it go in."

Justice Fitzgerald suggested that counsel should consult before Monday morning to see if they could agree on admitting only the material parts of the affidavit.

Mr. Delmas said he thought that if any of the paper went in it would all have to go in. Mr. Jerome objected to adjournment notwithstanding the fact that the usual hour had arrived. He said that as soon as the matter of the affidavit was concluded the people would rest their case. He said he would like to get through today. Mr. Jerome then asked Mr. Delmas if the defense would also rest after the affidavit is admitted or ruled out. To this Thaw's leading attorney replied:

"I can assure you most positively that we will not rest."

"Can you tell me how long you will require on surrebuttal?" asked Jerome.

"I can give you no estimate," said Mr. Delmas.

"Will I have to prepare myself to cross-examine any more learned experts?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"You doubtless will," concluded Mr. Delmas.

Adjournment until Monday morning then was taken.

TO REMODEL EMPIRE THEATER

Balcony to Be Put in and Entrance Entirely Changed—Will Cost Large Sum.

The Empire theater is to be completely remodeled. Work will be started Monday, and in three weeks Colorado Springs will have a new playhouse, the equal in beauty of any vaudeville house in the state.

"We are going to spend several hundred in overhauling the Empire," said Robert Ellis, the new manager, "and when completed, we will have a beautiful theater here. Work will commence Monday, and no expense will be spared in beautifying the house. There are to be two large arches in the front, each to have not less than 100 lights, and the entrance, when completed, will be the prettiest scene in the city. All of the old entrance will be torn away, and a new lobby built that will contain 400 lights. The seating capacity is to be increased to 1,200, as we expect to build a balcony. New opera chairs will be placed in the reserved seat section, and the old seats will be placed upstairs. The entire building will be repainted and the walls frescoed, new carpets laid, the stage enlarged and new scenery put in. We are going to make it more attractive by placing a dozen large mirrors, each 11 by 4½ feet, at the sides of the auditorium. The Colorado Springs patronage has been such as to merit these improvements, and I am glad to show my appreciation in this way."

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

Sheriff O. P. Grimes yesterday took Pat Alexander, the 12-year-old boy arrested in connection with the Shirley-Butler gang, to the State Reform school at Golden. Lottie Shirley and her husband, W. H. WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

LA SALLE COMEDY COMPANY AT THE OPERA HOUSE TODAY

The attraction at the Opera house today, matinee and night, will be Miss Leo La Salle, supported by her company of New York artists, in George Sawmnel's western border drama "The Scout's Revenge." A play that appeals to your nobler nature and makes you a better man or woman. A western drama, and the only one that received the hearty commendation from the press, public and pulpit of the east. A play which if once seen, is never to be forgotten. There is a vein of comedy that runs through the play that keeps an audience in screams of laughter. The strong dramatic situations bring forth storms of applause from the hardest theater goer to please.

There is only one verdict from the patrons of this play and that is "simply great." There are no overtures or waits. Specialties are introduced between the acts to keep the ball a-rolling. Matinee prices 15 and 25c. Evening prices 25c, 50c, 75c, $1.00.

"THE HARRY THAW TRIAL" AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The celebrated hypnotist, Mr. O. B. Griffith, will open an engagement of five nights at the Opera house, commencing next Monday evening. Mr. Griffith claims to give the funniest show on earth. During his stay in our city he will present some of his most wonderful feats, such as "Mind Reading," "The Funny Hypnotic Circus," "The Harry Thaw Trial" and "The Tallyho." He will also give, on next Monday afternoon, his wonderful "Wild Blindfold Drive." During the performance, a number of fine specialty acts will be introduced. During the engagement of Mr. Griffith in our city some years ago, he crowded the Opera house every night. On Monday evening he will admit the ladies free if accompanied by one paid ticket. The matinee prices will be, children 15c, adults 25c. Evening prices will be 25, 35 and 50 cents.

DANCING AT STRATTON PARK

New Pavilion Will Accommodate Several Hundred Couples.

If the plans of the street railway company are carried out, Stratton park will be a favorite resort for dancers this summer, when the new $20,000 pavilion is completed. The pavilion will be used for dancing and will accommodate several hundred couples. A special orchestra of ten pieces will furnish music for the dancers.

Work will begin on the pavilion in a few days, and it will be rushed to completion, that it may be ready for use early in June, when the band concert season opens.

TO RE-ESTABLISH CREDIT

Chamber of Commerce Will Indorse Pending Bill.

At the next meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce the bill now pending in the legislature providing for the payment of state warrants amounting to $2,000,000, which have been held up since 1887, will be indorsed. The bill has already been indorsed by the Denver Chamber of Commerce. The bill provides for a constitutional amendment authorizing the issue of about $2,000,000 in bonds, bearing interest at 3 per cent, and for the exchange of the warrants declared constitutionally invalid for the bonds. In 1887, salaries and appropriations were being paid out of the funds and revenues of the ensuing year, when it was found that this was unconstitutional. The bill now pending, if passed, will re-establish the credit of the state.

TWO IN ONE WINTER

C. H. Emerson, of Fitzwilliam, N. H., had two attacks of pneumonia in one winter. He writes that two physicians said he could not recover from the last attack. After they had given up hope he began taking Foley's Honey and Tar, which brought him out all right. He writes that he surely thinks Foley's Honey and Tar is the grandest remedy for throat and lung troubles. All dealers.

HOFFMAN INJURED—While pole vaulting, Thursday afternoon, Henry Hoffman, a star Colorado college track man, fell from a high vault and dislocated his left arm, and probably fractured it at the elbow. The injury will bar him from participation in athletics during the coming season.

WILL LECTURE—Professor L. A. E. Alders of Colorado college will lecture on "Ibsen's 'Brand'" in Perkins hall at 5:15 o'clock Tuesday evening. The public is invited.

THE NEVADA-TOMAHAWK G. M. & M. CO.

It has been only about ten days since we began telling the people, through the medium of this paper, of the splendid opportunities offered them by this company, and the results have been gratifying in the extreme. During the last few days our office, room 5 in the Midland block, has been thronged with people eager to investigate our findings, and in every instance we have succeeded in impressing them with the squareness of our proposition, and when shown the probable profits to be derived by investing at our present low price, with but few exceptions, we sold them stock. The one thing that impresses us most is the number of young men and women who are working on salaries, who have managed to save up a little by economy, and who are anxious to invest it in something that will bring them good returns. These are the people we are especially glad to have become interested, for we believe we can help them to get a start early in life, where they might continue to work for a small salary for a number of years and accumulate only a bare living. Then, too, we have interested a number of men who are better fixed—men who have a surplus of money lying in a bank from which they derive but little benefit. There are days when you must invest in order to make money, and when an opportunity such as we offer presents itself, you can not afford to let it pass. If the writer had taken the advice of a certain man (and who is now a member of our company) last spring, and instead of investing the $500 that I had saved, in real estate here, which is now netting me only 6 per cent interest, I had bought stock in the Work property of Cripple Creek, at 8 cents, my $500 would have made me $1,250 in less than six months. The stock sold for 23 cents during that time. But you say all stocks are not that lucky. Certainly they are not, but surely the word of a man who is able to give such advice as I mention above, should count something in determining where to place your money, especially when we can substantiate his claim by such showing as we have in our office. This same man is now buying every share of our outstanding stock that is offered for sale at anything less than the present market price of our treasury stock—which is 5 cents—which shows that he has implicit confidence in our proposition. Would you believe me when I tell you that we have a better future than the famous Portland mine? Investigate for yourself. The average ore from that mine is less than $16.50 per ton, while our average is better than $25, with a much less expense of treating, as our ore is free milling, and with our mill in close proximity, with our ore output where our only expense of transportation will be express charges on our gold bricks, do you see any reason why the price of our stock should not far exceed that of the Portland? You say then, Why do you need to advertise to sell your stock? Because we are in our infancy and need your help to put this mine on a paying basis. Then you will see people falling over themselves to get in. If this property were in the hands of moneyed men, who were able to meet the expenses necessary to putting in operation, you would not get a share of its stock for less than $1, for we know the property possesses ore of sufficient value to fully warrant its stock selling at this price. We have owned this property for over a year, but we were not unprincipled enough to ask you to buy its stock until we knew we had something to offer you in return. We started the stock at 1 cent, and subsequently raised it to 3, then to 5, as the work progressed and the showing justified; and on next Tuesday, March 19, the price will be raised to 10 cents. If you have a few minutes to spare, drop up to our office, room 5, in the Midland block, and let us show what we have, or call up Phone 495, and let us talk to you about it.

HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN!

After a campaign in which its leading organ accused the public service corporations of nearly all the crimes from petty larceny to murder, and advocated municipal ownership as the only cure for graft, the Municipal Ownership party in New York elected eleven aldermen.

When a recorder was to be elected by the board of aldermen these eleven, holding the balance of power, naturally voted for a candidate of their own party. Suddenly, however, and with one accord, they transferred their votes to former Judge Cowing, who was not a candidate, was not a member of their party, and had not authorized the use of his name.

It is possible that the M. O. alderman can satisfactorily explain this rather remarkable proceeding, but a World reporter offers an explanation which is somewhat disappointing to those who look to the Municipal Ownership party for the cure of graft.

According to his story, the reporter, hearing that the eleven were open to financial arrangements, told their alleged leader, Alderman Clifford, that certain interests wanted Judge Cowing elected, and were willing to pay for votes. It is further stated that Clifford agreed to deliver the eleven votes for $6,000, of which $500 was to go to each alderman, while $500 was for expenses, that the money, in marked gold certificates, was turned over to a "stakeholder," who paid it to Clifford after the votes had been delivered. When Clifford was arrested two hours later the marked bills were found upon him. Two of the others have been arrested for perjury in connection with this matter, and one of them has admitted making false statements to the grand jury.

The New York Times thus ends its editorial comment on the incident:

"An obvious application is to be made as to the character of at least some of the men who have been active in the Municipal Ownership League and the probable consequences of intrusting such men or men with such political motives and methods with the control and management of public utilities. May it not be that one of their motives in advocating their policy arises from the opportunities it would afford for employment in the public service, and of profiting, corruptly or otherwise, in such employment?

"How far motives of that kind may have animated those who organized the Municipal Ownership League or gave it support is matter of conjecture, but this incident certainly suggests how the opportunities might be used under a temptation and a chance of profit much greater and a risk much less than was presented in the election of a recorder by the board of aldermen. It is a most pregnant suggestion as to the possible consequences of the municipal ownership policy in the city of New

PROOF OF PLANT MEMORY.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

Plant memory is a problem for the inquisitive botanist. In 1901 a plant allied to the squash and pumpkin was taken to New York from the desert of Sonora, in Mexico, and since then it has been kept—without watering—in a strange climate 2,500 miles from home. During the six weeks of rain in the desert the plant grows its leaves and flowers, and perfects its seed. Then it dries up and leaves only a water-filled gourd, which a thick, hard shell seals against animals and evaporation. The transplanted specimen still remembers the rainy season of six weeks. It wakes, sends out rootlets, stems and leaves and then dries up again until the following year.

WIDEN JAPANESE TRACK

It is expected that work will be begun in the spring by the Japanese to widen their railway track from three and one-half feet to the standard American and English gauge—four feet eight and one-half inches—which will also enable it to connect with the Chinese railways. The Japanese track to Kwanchentgtze will, therefore, be the standard gauge, and the Russian five feet. All passengers will, therefore, have to be transferred at this neutral station.

What President Roosevelt Says About Non-Partisan City Government.

"The worst evils that affect our local government arise from, and are the inevitable result of, the mixing up of city affairs with party politics of the nation and state. The lines upon which national parties divide have no necessary connection with the business of the city. Such connections open the way to countless schemes of public plunder and civil corruption."—Theodore Roosevelt.

THE DEMOCRATIC "WIDE-OPEN" TICKET.

IT WAS General Grant who said that the Democratic party can always be depended on to make a blunder at the critical time, and the truth of the observation was fully proved in the Democratic city convention held Thursday. As a matter of shrewd politics, as well as of honest government, there was only one course open to the convention—to indorse the Municipal League ticket throughout. Every Democrat in Colorado Springs knows from past experience that his party has not a ghost of a chance of winning an election unaided, as it casts less than one-third of the total vote of the city. Therefore it can only win by uniting its strength with that of some other organization whose ticket bears the names of one or more representative Democrats. This was the procedure followed in the city campaign two years ago, when the Democrats indorsed the non-partisan ticket and thus helped to elect members of their party to the offices of Mayor, City Treasurer, and aldermen from the First, Second, Third and Sixth Wards.

It was the procedure advocated in the convention Thursday by such men as Senator Seldomridge and George W. Musser, who were known as leading Democrats in Colorado Springs long before the men who compose the Burns-Lombard faction had been heard of, either politically or otherwise. The Municipal League ticket bears the names of several men whose Democracy is unquestioned, though each of them has been nominated solely because of fitness for the place and not because of his political affiliations. By indorsing that ticket the Democratic organization could have placed itself on record, not only as grasping the one chance of securing clean government for Colorado Springs, but as aiding in the election to office of representative Democrats. Instead it preferred to be "independent," which in this case means merely stupid, for it insured its own total defeat in the coming election. Contemplating the proceedings of this Democratic convention, one can easily understand why the donkey is the chosen symbol of the Democratic party.

But the most significant thing about the convention's action is its challenge to all forces in the community that stand for law enforcement and clean, honest government. The convention was entirely dominated by the Burns-Lombard, or Democratic Club faction, and apparently the biggest man on the scene was Carl Albin, the alderman from the Sixth Ward, who soon after his election to the Council two years ago stirred up the Hydro-Electric rumpus, and who soon after that quit his job and hasn't done a day's work since. Before he entered politics Albin was a meat-cutter, but since beginning his operations in the Council he has retired from that humble but honorable occupation and devoted himself entirely to "private" affairs—so private, in fact, that even his nearest neighbors can only make guesses and draw their own conclusions as to their nature. His entire visible means of support is the salary of $50 a month paid him as an alderman, but he is apparently more prosperous than in the heyday of his meat-cutting career.

The ticket is frankly and avowedly the work of the Democratic Club and its chief political director, W. S. Boynton, and it is intended to advance the interests of that select organization in every way possible. It is an expression of the desire of the Burns-Lombard faction to secure what they most want—a "wide-open town." They are not particularly anxious to elect anybody on their ticket except Albin—they will make a hard fight for him, for they need him in their business—and they are aware that he is the only one who has a possible chance.

The ticket is placed in the field merely in the hope that it will draw enough Democratic votes away from the Municipal League to bring about the election of the Republican machine ticket, which also stands for the "wide-open policy." The chances of this move being successful are very remote. The reputable Democrats of Colorado Springs are as anxious to secure honest government as anybody, and they know perfectly well that the only way they can attain this end is to vote the straight Municipal League ticket. The ticket put up by the Burns-Lombard crowd will bear the Democratic name, but it will not fool the voters of that party, who recognize in it merely a thinly-disguised attempt to boost the Republican gang candidates into office.

For the last two years the Telegraph has been barking at the heels of the Electric company in an effort to convince the people that it favored lower lighting rates. But for the last two weeks, or since the Council decided to submit the question of municipal ownership to a vote of the people, the Telegraph has not said a word on the subject.

Why?

Remember the Telegraph's street railway passes, gentle reader, and guess the answer.

The local organ of the Boynton-Fairley-Burns-Lombard combination announces that "the sneers of the Municipal League will not avail with the people in the face of the established record of the Republican party in this city for the last twenty years." The less the gang organ has to say about that record, the better for its cause. It may find itself called upon to explain a half-dozen or so embezzlements and a long string of graft and mismanagement.

The evening paper yesterday published under [illegible] "dispatches" about the alleged failure of municipal lighting plants in Cleveland, Ohio, and Zeeland, Michigan. Of course these articles were bona fide dispatches and came over the Telegraph's Associated Press wire, not from the office of the Colorado Springs Electric Company.

"The Municipal League has selected a high priced suite of rooms at the Alamo from which to disseminate information to the public on how to be saved. The best the Republicans could do is to get a suite of rooms upstairs, on a side street.—The Telegraph, organ of the gang.

What's the matter? The gang has a good many corporation shekels in its campaign fund; doesn't it intend to put them into circulation?

Former Mayor Robinson told the Republican convention that "Good, moral principles are embodied in the Municipal League movement, and well-known, responsible citizens are back of it." Considering that he was addressing a gang convention, the only wonder is that Dr. Robinson wasn't thrown out bodily.

We have received a circular letter from a "professional rainmaker," who, after describing his work, adds, "Favorable press comments solicited, unfavorable not wanted." It would be a relief to the newspapers if all seekers of press notices were as frank.

Now Mr. Delmas threatens to put Mr. Jerome on the witness stand. Better still, let these two attorneys hire a hall and fight it out with four-ounce gloves.

INALIENABLE RIGHT OF BOYS.

From the Baltimore American.

That this is the children's century was judicially affirmed in a suit for damages brought by the parents of a boy injured by an electric light attached to a tree that the small boy in the pursuit of happiness guaranteed by the constitution has an inalienable right to climb a tree.

THE A. B., C'S OF "RIGHTS."

From the New Bedford Standard.

A Washington correspondent of a Boston newspaper says that "the president has more than once said he was for states' rights so long as they were the people's rights and no longer." We should really like to know what the president or the correspondent, or both of them, mean, by the distinction between "states' rights" and people's rights." What are the states but the people who live in them, and what are the rights of the states but the rights of the people? What are any rights—state rights or federal rights—but the rights of the people? Neither state nor nation has the smallest scrap of rights as a quality or a function apart from the rights of the people, and when any person sets up either one or the other as something different from the rights of the people, he shows that he has an exceedingly poor conception of the whole subject. A so-called states' right that is not a right of the people is no right at all—no more, for that matter, is a so-called federal right. Some persons do not appear to comprehend this fundamental truth of the American system.

EUROPE AND AMERICAN SECURITIES.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Assuredly revelations of the kind the Harriman inquiry has elicited are not calculated to increase foreign confidence in our securities. Frenzied overcapitalization and fraudulent payment of high dividends out of capital will not "look good" to European investors. Nor will ignorant and hasty rate reduction bills and acts. Still, writers on responsible papers and public men should understand that not all American railroads have been, or are in the least likely to be, Harrimanized, and that the American business community, including conservative railroad men, are startled by the reports on the Harriman operations just because of their exceptional, unrepresentative character.

There is no excuse for the silly and sweeping indictments of American railroads and business methods generally that some Europeans are indulging in. "It is becoming a grave question," solemnly said the editor of a London "tory" daily recently, "whether Americans are morally capable of conducting great industrial enterprises." Our captains of industry, he proceeded, had no adequate sense of responsibility, hence the insurance scandals and the railroad abuses.

A conservative member of the reichstag is reported as saying that German bankers and investors should exercise the "greatest caution in regard to American railroads," for they are so "badly constructed that a reaction can not be avoided."

A London financial journal informs its readers that "the idea of the community of interests is dead" in America, that the railroads find themselves in an embarrassing position and can not find any market for their securities because, "practically speaking, all men are against them."

These gross exaggerations happen to synchronize with an announcement of a satisfactory sale of $30,000,000 worth of bonds to French bankers by the New Haven railroad and with semiofficial reports of the plans of the Pennsylvania to market $50,000,000 short time notes in Paris, Berlin and London. The latter road placed a $50,000,000 loan some time ago in Paris, and that transaction created, it appears, a demand for more American securities of the same high class in French investing circles, which are refusing to absorb additional Russian loans and looking for safer and sounder securities. Such facts speak louder than superficial and sensational words. But, of course, we can not keep European confidence, where it has been secured by well-managed roads, if we permit ignorance, suspicion and insincerity to influence our railroad legislation.

THE NOMINATION WITH THE STRING TO IT.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I am not a Republican because my father happened to be born in Virginia, but because I believe in Republican policies, in national and state affairs of government. But, as a Republican, I can not see why the question of a tariff should enter into the present municipal campaign, more than to say, as General Hancock said in his letter accepting the Democratic nomination for the presidency, "that it is a local question," and as such it may have some bearing on the question of the development of our vast water-power on the west, all of which has been absolutely given away by the party which I am proud to call mine. Or it may have some bearing on the question when applied to municipal affairs of bringing the dry lands on the east into public favor.

As a Republican, I recognize the fact that the polished gentleman of wealth, who heads the Republican ticket, did agree to support any other as a nominee of the party who would take it, with the same string to it, that it had when offered to him. But thanks be to the high moral standing of the individual members of my grand old party, only one could be found, who would agree to take it on the terms named. Clark refused to take it; Morse refused to take it; Fertig refused to take it—but to name all these to whom it was offered by the powers that be now holding the string, would exhaust your patience, and so I desist.

The question every Republican will answer by his vote will be this: Shall we reinstate a regime of wide-open immorality as it existed under the late Republican administration?

Say yes or no by your vote.

A SIN OF OMISSION.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In his extended reply to "Electron's" letter in this morning's Gazette, Mr. Bache makes no reference to "Electron's" bill being a little more than usual when he had used about half as much current. Yet he spoke of "possible juggled municipal bookkeeping." For my part, I had rather take my chances with "possible juggled bookkeeping" than with "actual juggled meter-reading."

THE TRINIDAD LIGHTING PLANT.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I note that the Colorado Springs Electric company is leaving no stone unturned to defeat the municipal lighting ordinance to be voted on in April, and also that they have jumped like a duck after a June bug, to call attention to the report that the Las Animas Light, Power and Manufacturing company of Trinidad, may go into the hands of a receiver on account of "the general increase in the price of fuel and general electric supplies. To use the words of their superintendent, C. H. Paul, they have not been able to make both ends meet, principally on account of a large number of flat rate customers who have failed to shut off their lights as agreed, and the prevailing low price in general.

The point I wish to draw attention to is the different conditions and prices existing there and here. There, every volt of current is made with steam power, which everyone knows is much more expensive than the cheap water power we have at our very back door, and there they charge the smallest consumers only 10 cents per kilowatt-hour, and the minimum charge is only $1 per month, as compared to the $1.50 we have to pay here. It is this high minimum charge here that I would like to see reduced, as I am what you would call a small consumer, having only 12 lights in my house, and during the summer, and even right now, I do not use the amount of current I am obliged to pay for, namely, 12 kilowatt-hours a month. The Colorado Springs Electric company made it appear in their article in the Open Parliament, March 14, that the only trouble with the Trinidad company was the excessive use of current by flat-rate consumers, while Superintendent H. C. Paul states it is the high prices of fuel and electric supplies and the prevailing low prices.

Yours for cheaper electric light service, either by the Springs Electric company or the municipal plant,

A FORMER RESIDENT OF TRINIDAD.

MUNICIPAL LEAGUES AND MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

The failure of the League of American Municipalities, of which Mayor Dunne is president, to indorse municipal ownership at its last convention, is significant of the change of sentiment among the leading cities of the country.

The failure of Municipal league representatives to purify politics is shown in a reading notice published by us in another column entitled, "How Are the Mighty Fallen."

The reduction of rates in Duluth is not due to the principles of municipal ownership, but to the fact that the city purchases its gas from the Zenith Furnace company, which is operating immense coke oven plants, the gas being a by-product. According to the city's reports for 1905, the interest on the gas works bonds amounted to about 20 cents per thousand feet sold. How can the gas plant show a profit when it pays the company approximately 40 cents a thousand, pays 26 cents more for interest, and sells that gas for 75 cents to 50 cents a thousand feet, after the cost of operation, distribution expense and leakage is included?

Professor E. W. Bemis ought to be an authority in municipal monopolies. He runs one which for 16 years was responsible for a death rate of 52 from typhoid fever. After public indignation forced an extension of the intake of the Cleveland water works the typhoid death rate dropped at once to 17. Professor Bemis ought to know something about political mismanagement. He does.

We know of several good citizens who will assure "Electron" that the water works here could be more ably and economically managed by a private company than by the city. While it is a fundamental maxim of business that property will be run in the interest of its owners, we have yet to learn of a municipal plant that is run along strict business lines, and which is operated other than in the interests of the politicians who happen to be in control of the administration.

The Blooming of the Butterfly

HOW IT CIRCUMVENTS ENEMIES—BUILDS A WINTER HOME AND MASQUERADES IN BORROWED PLUMAGE.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

HOW many human observers have ever thought of the gayly fluttering, apparently carefree butterfly as a creature of some intelligence and definite purpose in life?

Some of them exercise remarkable shrewdness in circumventing their enemies; they masquerade in borrowed plumes and assume disguises when threatened with danger.

For the preservation of the species they build winter homes with a great deal of forethought and mechanical skill. Even in this act of devotion that marks the closing of a brief but busy life, they exercise ingenuity in guarding against danger to their descendants.

A woman who has studied butterflies from love of nature writes the following regarding these light-winged "flowers of the air."

> Hast thou heard the butterflies,
> What they say betwixt their wings?
> —Tennyson.

Some insects are clever in misleading and deceiving their enemies, and one of these, a Basilarchia butterfly, commonly called the Viceroy, has greatly interested me because of the devices which it employs for the purpose.

It is a gay little masquerader from the beginning to the end of its life, and so escapes more easily from the dangers that beset it at every turn than do many of its fellows.

Whether the faculty which enables certain insects to impersonate objects and creatures different from themselves by instinct, inherited wisdom, or something akin to human intelligence, I am not prepared to say. But I am certain that they can and do assume remarkable disguises.

Members of the group of butterflies known as the Basilarchia, to which the Viceroy belongs, are so much alike in their egg, caterpillar and chrysalis periods that only an expert can distinguish one species from another.

During these stages of existence all are equally protected by some form of mimicry, but in the last, or winged, period, the Viceroy abandons its family, so to speak, and assumes colors and markings almost identical with those of the orange and black Monarch, or milkweed butterfly, of an entirely different genus.

By the change of dress this Basilarchia enjoys a much safer existence than do the others of the species, presumably because its feathered foes associate its color with the bitter taste of the Monarch, and so leave both insects alone.

Because of the resemblance which exists between the Basilarchias during their early stages, I was never quite certain as to the identity of eggs, caterpillars and chrysalides when gathered, until I caught Madame Viceroy ovipositing on the 15th of a certain September.

I watched her for some time as she flew from leaf to leaf of a golden willow, and finally succeeded in locating three leaves upon which she alighted. These I picked and found a minute egg at the extreme end of each.

As Basilarchia butterflies invariably choose such a location whereon to lay their eggs, it is logical to suppose that they do it intentionally, and with the idea of protecting their progeny from the raiding ants, spiders and mites who find their food by touch rather than by sight.

The eggs of the Viceroy, when examined under a glass, appeared to be covered with minute waving threads, which were not unlike the hairs of the leaf, and these threads may keep small marauders from using these tiny eggs as storehouses for their more tiny children.

Seem to Reason at Birth.

In ten days little dark caterpillars emerged from the shells. Each had a white saddle patch on its back, and was well covered with warts. It seemed even at birth to show reasoning faculties, for it at once ate up its late home, and so removed what might have proved a "scent" to its enemies as they traveled over the leaf, searching for food.

After this performance, the young crawler began to feed in such a manner that the lower part of the midvein of the leaf was left free and exposed; this it strengthened with silken wrappings and took up its position along its length, where it was quite inconspicuous.

At the conclusion of its second meal it snipped a few tiny bits from the leaf and made them into a loose bundle, which it suspended by a thread from the midvein and then resumed its former pose.

It took the entomologist some time to ascertain why a small Basilarchia sets such store by its swaying rubbish heap. But as it was repeatedly noticed that a feeding insect, when located by a bird, would remain motionless under the attack, and so frequently escape, while its dangling package disappeared, they came to the conclusion that the caterpillar realizes that in nature a moving object is more conspicuous than one at rest, and so makes practical application of the fact.

I confined the little viceroys in an insect box or vivarium, where I could study them more conveniently than on their native tree. Before they were many days old they realized in some mysterious way that summer was done and cold weather was at hand.

On October 2 one began its preparations for winter. I watched it for hours as it went about its business. After a deal of wandering it selected a leaf and nibbled it away near the tip, leaving the midvein quite denuded.

It then crawled to the stem, and trimmed down the upper edges of the leaf in a most accurate manner. Next it cut a piece off from either side of the leaf in a way so clever that I was filled with wonder and admiration.

To accomplish this feat, the small worker used its jaws like a pair of scissors. Beginning at the upper end of the leaf, it made a cut down one side an eighth of an inch long; it then repeated the operaton on the other side.

Going to the lower end of the leaf it made two upward incisions that were in exact line with those first cut; little by little one and another of these cuts were lengthened until the two opposite each other met, when the severed portion dropped to the ground, leaving but a small remnant of the original leaf.

Here was a case of insect engineering—and the engineer such a wee creature, too! How had it learned the lesson? With the foundation ready, so to speak, the Basilarchia began to spin white silk threads with which it lined the bit of leaf and shaped it into a round tube; the threads were also wrapped about the stem of the leaf and the whole securely fastened to the parent twig. So intelligent an action showed plainly that the insect understood that the leaf would fall unless it was artificially supported.

This program, with slight variations, was repeated by the remaining caterpillars, and all had disappeared within doors by October 14. I then tied the twigs holding the viceroy homes to a willow so that the little crawlers might winter under normal conditions. To my surprise the hibernacula at a short distance appeared to be only bits of leaves that were still clinging to the trees.

Broods Vary in Instinct.

The Basilarchia is double-brooded, but, strange as it may seem, the summer caterpillars are without the building instinct which belongs to their fall generation.

Early in April I found the hibernacula to all intents and purposes unharmed, and kept a close watch over them. It was not until the middle of the month, however, that I discovered all three of the inmates sunning themselves upon the midvein platforms in front of their doorways. I at once placed the insects with fresh food leaves in the vivarium which they had formerly occupied, and which enabled them to be out of doors, although in confinement.

I noticed that while the little crawlers fed during the sunny hours of the day, they crept back into their houses at night, and that, when it was especially cool, they did not come forth at all. In fact, it was some time before they considered the weather sufficiently settled to entirely abandon winter quarters.

Then I met with one of the many disappointments common in nature study, the larvae ceased eating and remained for thirty-six hours all but motionless. This lead me to believe that they were about ready to cast their skins. But, lo and behold! from the body of each caterpillar there emerged the child of a small ichneumon fly, a maggot.

The mother fly, unknown to me, had managed to pierce the skin of my prized Viceroys and deposit her eggs beneath, and now these had hatched into maggots, which, having eaten up their host, began to spin small silken cocoons.

I went soon after to the willow where I had seen Madame Viceroy ovipositing the fall before, feeling certain that I should there find more of her children. In this I was not mistaken. I gathered quite a number of young larvae, which appeared to be of the same age as those killed by the ichneumon fly.

They were now too large to live upon the denuded midveins, and so had traveled to the upper surface of the leaves, and there boldly taken up their residence. They realized, apparently, that they need no longer fear exposure, for, with each succeeding moult, they had become more and more like some repellant thing, and less like the rubbish heap of earlier days.

A Transformation.

By the morning of June 2 one of the caterpillars was fully grown and very restless. It traveled hither and thither until at last it began to spin silk, which it wove into a wee mat upon the side of a twig.

Here, late in the afternoon, I found the larva suspended by its last pair of legs, which were caught in the silken mesh. It was not an accident, oh, no! Just the first stage of the queer transformation which would change the creeping worm into a "winged flower of the air."

The following day I watched the Basilarchia closely and was rewarded by seeing the caterpillar skin back of the head split and wrinkle up and off from the object beneath. This time it was not a freshly-dressed caterpillar that appeared, but, instead, a very irregular and much humped chrysalis, quivering with life, for, within its closed walls rested the future butterfly.

Twelve days later the awakening came, and with it another surprise, for, instead of an orange and black Viceroy, there stepped forth a butterfly with black velvety wings which, as they lengthened and took form, showed a border of iridescent blue scales.

However, there was really nothing mysterious about the appearance of the dark butterfly. I had simply assumed, and erroneously, that all of the crawlers taken from the golden willow would belong to Madame Viceroy, when, in point of fact, a cousin Basilarchia, the Red Spotted Purple, had also selected this tree as a nursery or feeding place for at least one of her children. The Viceroys, however, were not laggards and appeared soon after dressed in the borrowed plumage of the Monarch.

COLD DOESN'T AFFECT WATCHES

It Did in Olden Times, but Not in These Days.

From the Kansas City Star.

"When a man's watch goes wrong in winter he is apt to think it is because the cold has affected it," said a jeweler last week.

"It used to be so because the cold contracted the metal of the delicate balance wheel. But now this wheel is made partly of brass and partly of steel, like the compensation pendulum in a clock. These metals have opposite expansibilities and the result is that the balance wheel is always of the same size and runs with the same speed in all kinds of weather and the cold does not affect it."

IN CENTRAL AMERICA

SITUATION OF HOSTILITIES IS EXPLAINED.

War Between Honduras and Nicaragua Outlined in Correspondence of Associated Press

PUERTO CORTEZ, Honduras, via New Orleans, March 1.—In spite of the claims made by commanding officers on each side that the enemy has been vanquished in an important battle, the fighting between Honduras and Nicaragua has up to the present time been confined to small engagements between scouting parties on one or the other side of the frontier [illegible] skirmishes [illegible] has made claims of victories not warranted by the facts and each side has called the reports sent out by the other false and misleading. But while there has been no battle as yet, all the conditions are ripe for a serious engagement. It is a mistake to characterize the Central American fighting as comic opera performances. Much of the fighting [illegible] positively [illegible] but the warring elements [illegible] that they can on occasion put up a good stiff fight and if the [illegible] forces of Honduras and Nicaragua do meet in a general engagement the conflict will in no sense be inconsequential or to be laughed at.

The actual result of armed hostility between Honduras and Nicaragua, from the Honduran side is briefly as follows.

The skirmish at San Marcos [illegible] the Nicaraguan frontier [illegible] The main Honduras forces is at Choluteca, Texiguat, Guinope and Yuscuran. These four towns are in practically a straight line and about [illegible] miles from the frontier.

President Bonilla is waiting for further reinforcements from Tegucigalpa and for arms from the United States [illegible] first serious engagement on Honduras territory in order to be able to demand that Salvador make good her [illegible] to help him in case of war. The presence of President Bonilla in the field has stimulated the Honduran forces so that the men have confidence and he is a fighter of experience. He has a strong personal following in Salvadorean army and everyone here is expecting to hear any day that Salvador as well as the confidence of the [illegible] to fight first with him. Honduras has armed already between sixteen and eighteen thousand men and fifteen thousand more are being equipped at the capital. The president is in close touch with his capital by automobile. There is a splendid macadamized road from Tegucigalpa to the Pacific coast which passes within a six hour horseback ride of the Honduran headquarters at Choluteca. This place has water communication with the seaport of Amapala, which makes the transportation of artillery and supplies comparatively easy. The presence [illegible] of the Honduran force cover all the main roads from Nicaragua.

It would appear that the Nicaraguans [illegible] have concentrated at Somoto, Santa Maria and Ocotal.

The first actual difficulty took place at La Mora, a little village the main street of which marks the frontier line between Honduras and Nicaragua. The Nicaraguans who were encamped on their side of the village crossed the line one night and stole a Honduran mule and retired with their capture without firing a shot. This incident was followed by diplomatic correspondence in which the Nicaraguans were stigmatized as cattle thieves.

This was resented with counter charges and shortly after there was a town meeting at Amapala, Honduras, in which President Zelaya of Nicaragua was accused of violating his promises and fomenting strife. Nicaragua then demanded that Honduras punish the municipality of Amapala, but this Honduras refused on the ground that the Honduran people were guaranteed the right of public speech and meeting. President Bonilla offered to submit the La Mora incident and all pending questions to arbitration but this Nicaragua refused and shortly after both countries began seriously to prepare for war.

In Honduras President Zelaya is harshly criticised. He is accused of harboring and aiding Honduran revolutions to organize and promising them arms and ammunition with which to fight present government.

He was a friend of Sierra Arias and Policarpo Bonilla, both sworn enemies of the present president, and in Honduras it is declared categorically that Zelaya long has been waiting a pretext to declare war on Honduras. His ultimate purpose being to set up in this country a president in sympathy with his own ambitions. The people and government of Honduras believe that Zelaya hopes now to repeat his victory of 1894 when a Nicaraguan army entered Tegucigalpa and Policarpo Bonilla was proclaimed president of Honduras. The question of a boundary line between Honduras and Nicaragua is still open and with a friendly president at Tegucigalpa Nicaragua would be sure of boundaries [illegible] favorable to herself. In short President Zelaya is thoroughly distrusted not only in Honduras but in Salvador and Guatemala as well and the [illegible] government decided it was preferable to fight him in a final [illegible] his international [illegible] than to let him continue to [illegible] disorders.

[illegible] Salvador are bound by [illegible] each other in case of [illegible] President Zelaya is hostile to [illegible] Estrada Cabrera the president of Guatemala. There is a chance that Guatemala will remain neutral but if [illegible] of Central America [illegible] the exception of Costa Rica [illegible] active part [illegible] become involved.

Salvador [illegible] Choluteca the central point of Honduran organization that Salvadorean troops could join Bonilla [illegible] hours and another 24 hours [illegible] the united armies on Nicaraguan territory. If the Nicaraguans should [illegible] Tegucigalpa the Honduran forces are so disposed that they [illegible] concentrated to oppose the invaders. Salvadorean troops could be hurried to Tegucigalpa in 48 hours. There is reason to believe that both belligerents are expecting shipments of arms from the United States.

MENACE OF ALIEN TOILERS

Those Who Come Here Only to Earn Money to Be Taken Abroad

From the Philadelphia Press.

Cheap ocean passage, high wages [illegible] one side of the Atlantic and a low cost of living on the other have created the international tramp. Nearly 300,000 men and women, much the larger share being men, return from this country yearly to Europe. They have come over to the United States and they have worked for a longer or shorter time, sometimes only for a single season. They have made enough to live for a few months in idleness under the cheap conditions of South Italy, of Hungary, of Galicia or some other of the lands in eastern and southern Europe from which our present immigration is drawn. They straightway return to live in idleness until they can again come to this country to begin work at high wages but on a scale of life in some contractor's shack below even that which would be accepted and permitted in their own land. If they have been longer in this country, sometimes only six or eight years, they have often accumulated enough by living with [illegible] indifference to their health, the standard of life or the good of the community so as to return to their original home. They set up there as usurers in a small way, as owners of realty or with a small income from investment, with which they [illegible] the labor they do.

Menace to Public

The men intending to return [illegible] contractors' camps. They throng the mines in this and other states. They are present in cities living in dire condition, which our health boards in vain attempt to improve because they are dealing with a floating population. They constitute a serious peril to every public interest.

[illegible] men unmarried, they often [illegible] to a low personal life. Having neither family nor children, [illegible] possessing no property here and [illegible] nothing as far as this country is concerned they are not taxed. They share the burdens of neither land they pay no taxes here though the Turkish, Greek, Italian, Hungarian or Galician tax gatherer is prompt to get [illegible] as soon as they appear.

[illegible] their interest [illegible] either [illegible] back and forth a vast tide of human beings. They demoralize life in every region in Europe where they settle by their idleness and their excess. In Spain committees are being organized to deal with the floating migration. In parts of Hungary the Austrian [illegible] report that whole villages are rife with drunkenness in consequence of the idle returned American immigrant.

No One to Do the Work

In southern Italy, between the able bodied man who does all his work in this country and the man who has made a little trifling sum on which he can live who will no longer work, Professor Villari, an Italian economist, reports that the farming and simple manufacturing industries of the region are in hopeless arrears for labor.

Yearly this problem grows more serious. It renders the detection of crime difficult in both countries because they may come and go without identification. It gives contractors great masses of labor which they use as if they were machines with a complete absence of responsibility. It furnishes in this country a body of at least 2,000,000 men or [illegible] one twelfth of our working population who have no [illegible] roots in the soil in this country and [illegible] responsibility for their native [illegible] to which they expect to return to [illegible] comparative idleness.

It is not strange that in every European country this condition of affairs is beginning to lead to serious discussion as to the necessity of dealing with the returned immigrant and that in this country the public pressure for the regulation of immigration grows.

DAUGHTER OF PRES TYLER

Mrs. [illegible] Tyler Semple, a daughter of President Tyler and once mistress of the White house, is living quietly in the Louise Home for the Aged in Washington. She was a little girl when Lafayette paid his last visit to this country and was in her young ladyhood on the stage before the Seminole Indians were finally pacified in Florida. She saw the first telegraph wire in the United States stretched from Washington to Baltimore.

FERTILITY OF CUBAN SOIL

From the Chicago Chronicle.

Cuban soil is so fertile that at the present time the cane field is planted only about once in ten years. Experienced American growers say that there is no necessity to plant more than once if care is taken in cutting the cane at harvest time not to pull up any of the roots, as new cane will immediately sprout from these. Ten tons of cane produce one ton of sugar if treated by the latest mechanical processes. A plantation of 1,000 acres may yield 3,000 tons of sugar under fairly favorable conditions.

GIFTS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

That the People May Know

How the "Favored District" System Works

Peabody, Mass., was recently quoted as an example of successful municipal ownership. The plant there has been operated on the "favored district" system, the municipal plant lighting the center of the city, while the Salem Electric Co. did the rest. Although the whole city helped support the plant, many taxpayers did not get any benefit and had to buy current from the Salem Co., in addition to paying taxes for the municipal plant. The last annual report of the lighting board says:

"The experience of electric companies has been that one of the large items of cost is the amount set aside to cover depreciation and replacement of apparatus, much of which is out of date long before it is entirely worn out, but which must give way to new and more economical types. Equipment that when installed seemed adequate has been outgrown long before the time to which it was estimated it could be used. Certainly this has been the case in Peabody."

As a result of this report an examination of the plant was made by experts, who declared that the generating equipment was only fit for the scrap-heap, and that the distributing system was so obsolete that immediate renewal was necessary. The experts' report also suggested that, as the Salem Electric Co. had offered to supply current at a much lower rate than the municipal plant could give, the city abandon its plant and make a contract. This matter is now under consideration. The citizens who did not live in the FAVORED DISTRICT had no relish in paying taxes to meet expense for the benefit of a favored few.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, has been saddled with the FAVORED DISTRICT problem, and one of the leading citizens writes:

"I have only been a looker-on at Rome, having had no direct connection with either of the three plants, except to pay taxes and rent for the utilities. However, a specialist could not find much data to go on, as no records have been kept until recent years of the various bond issues and special taxes to build, maintain and enlarge the gas, water and electric light plants. The gas works were built about thirty-five years ago, the water works twenty-five years ago, and the electric light plant about fifteen years ago. Some $50,000 have been expended on the latter within the last year. Not less than $15,000 have been expended on the water works within the past two years, and as much more on the gas works within the same period.

"The most FLAGRANT INJUSTICE resulting from municipal ownership is that of taxing property holders OUTSIDE of the fire protection limits and also OUTSIDE of the territory covered by gas mains; again, in taxing those who are not able to put these utilities into their homes; then, again, in taxing all the people for extending the mains and enlarging the plants, who have been taxed from the beginning, besides being consumers, and in that way paying for the first plants as well as the new ones that have been installed in all three instances, the gas works being enlarged and improved at three different times.

"Another great wrong has been permitted in the past, that of furnishing city officials with gas, water and electricity free of charge, and supplying the same with coal in car lots bought through the gas, water or electric light plants. Another wrong that no one has ever been able to correct is the custom that has prevailed from the first of making no charge and keeping no account of water, gas and electricity furnished to the city buildings, street lighting, fire protection, etc., making it utterly impossible for anyone to tell just what each plant was earning.

"Politics has always dominated the management of the plants, and through favoritism the plants have at times been badly managed. At present the Board of Public Service is being severely censured for paying a favorite contractor 23 cents for laying pipe when several other contractors have offered to do the same work for 12½ cents per foot."

The contemplated abandonment of municipal ownership in both these cities is due largely to the "favored district" system as contemplated in Colorado Springs. While the ordinances do not provide for a "FAVORED DISTRICT" it is recognized that the City has not the money to provide for more than a LIMITED AREA, and the citizens outside this district will be assessed just as heavily as those within it. The estimate furnished to the council provides for a distributing system covering less than a third of the city and this cannot be extended until the problematical profits of the proposed plant provide the funds.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

B. F. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended, and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Why not let it help you? All druggists.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. Alfred Johnson, of 605 E. St. Vrain street, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved of the greatest benefit to Mr. Johnson. He suffered with severe pains across his back and loins for some time. He heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured a box at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co.'s and their use quickly demonstrated their healing powers. We are glad to let others know the value of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them at every opportunity."

WHERE WOMEN ARE SOLDIERS

Women in China have the privilege of fighting in the wars. In the rebellion of 1850 women did as much fighting as men. At Nankin in 1853 about 500,000 women from various parts of the country were formed into brigades of 13,000 each, under female officers. Of these soldiers 10,000 were picked women, drilled and garrisoned in the city.

65,600 POSTOFFICES

BABY'S FACE IN TERRIBLE STATE

Awful Humor Was Eating Away Face and Ears—Body Mass of Sores—Three Doctors Tried to Help Little Sufferer But She Grew Worse—After Spending Many Dollars On Doctors and Medicine

CUTICURA CURES IN TWO WEEKS AT COST OF 75c.

"I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away. Her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever. Mrs. George J. Steese, 701 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, Aug. 30, 1905."

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY!

The President of the Nevada Portland Gold Mining Company leaves today for Nevada, accompanied by one of the best mineral experts in the state, to examine a number of valuable claims, which, if found satisfactory, will be added to the holdings of the company, thereby greatly increasing the acreage owned, and doubling the value of the stock of the company.

The expert will also direct operations for development on the present holdings of the company so that every dollar expended will bring the best possible return. Every man who can be used to advantage will be employed and put to work opening up the great, rich veins of gold ore on the company's patented ground, and a strike may be made which will send the price of stock skyward.

No further advertisement will appear until after the return of the president.

The Vice President and Secretary will be in charge of the company's office, and subscriptions for stock at ten cents will be received and stock issued until the block of ten-cent stock is taken. The price of stock may be doubled when this block is subscribed.

The block of ten-cent stock is more than half subscribed. Those who wish stock at this price should make their reservation at once.

STARED DEATH IN FACE

Remarkable Escape of Auto Party in Dashing Over Floorless Bridge.

PUEBLO, March 15.—Staring death in the face, four men sat rigid in their seats while an automobile speeding along at the rate of twenty miles an hour at 8 o'clock last night dashed over a floorless bridge at Bragdon, twelve miles north of Pueblo on the road from Colorado Springs to Pueblo.

The party consisted of H. E. Warren, F. W. Roberts and E. Finch, all traveling men, who are guests of the Grand hotel and Charles Weld, a chauffeur for the Pueblo Automobile Manufacturing company.

They had crossed the bridge yesterday morning and on the return trip, the chauffeur, who knew the road perfectly, allowed the car to dash along at full speed. During the day some one had removed all the flooring from the bridge, but this was not discovered by the occupants of the automobile until the headlights showed the danger only a few yards ahead. With a cry of warning to the other occupants the chauffeur steadied the steering wheel and held the car straight until it had made the perilous journey across the stringers. One slight wavering of the car might have caused it to upset and dash itself and the passengers on the rocks of the arroyo twenty feet below.

An investigation was made and it was found that the black floor had been removed evidently for the purpose of making repairs, but no lights nor warning signals had been posted to safeguard the public.

BELL HOP A HERO

Risks His Life in Elevator to Save Three-Year-Old Boy.

DENVER, March 15.—Risking his life to save that of little Billy Porter, 3 years old, Thomas McNulty, a bellboy in the Savoy hotel, last evening tried to spring into the ascending cage of an elevator which the child had entered and started upward by moving the lever. McNulty was caught between the floor of the elevator and the immovable framework of the elevator shaft above the door. At the instant his life was about to be crushed out, the frightened child reversed the lever again. The cage started downward, and McNulty, released from his perilous position, fell two floors into the basement.

Rushing to the scene, attracted by the child's screams, Mrs. Porter saw the elevator ascending. Springing into the shaft, she seized ropes beneath the cage and was being carried upward when the engineer in the basement stopped the elevator and the woman and child were rescued. McNulty is in the county hospital, but will recover.

GET INCREASE IN WAGES

D. & R. G. Machinists to Get Raise of Two to Three Cents an Hour.

DENVER, March 15.—It is announced that the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company has made a concession to 500 machinists and pipemen employed by that road of an increase in wages amounting to 2 and 3 cents an hour, a nine-hour workday and time and a half for overtime. The increase affects the entire system.

The increase is the result of negotiations which have extended over several months between M. J. McQueeney, of Salt Lake City, district representative of the International Association of Machinists; Frank Owen, of Denver, representing the employes, and the officials of the Rio Grande through General Manager Ridgway. The average pay was 35 cents an hour; hereafter the Denver machinists and pipemen will receive 37 cents, and the Pueblo and Salida men 38 cents, while the men on other parts of the system in Colorado will receive 35 cents. Many of the men laid off at the time the Rio Grande retrenchment policy went into effect are gradually being re-employed.

TOPAZ WEIGHS FORTY POUNDS

Assayer in Cripple Creek Finds the Largest in the World.

VICTOR, Colo., March 15.—Edward Hauk, an assayer in Cripple Creek, a few days ago brought into town what is probably the largest specimen of topaz that has ever been seen in the western mining region, and no doubt one of the biggest crystals of that type that has yet been found in the world. It weighs 40 pounds, and is one of the white kind, which makes it very valuable for the manufacture of topaz jewelry. In fact, the Hauk stone is one of the rarest which is utilized for that purpose, and if the ruling prices for first-class topaz crystals is fair to base its uncut value on, it ought to be worth about $4,000 at least, as probably 1,000 stones can be cut from it. It is transparent, and the light which it refracts almost equals that of diamonds.

Nerve Sick

If weak, worn-out, nervous, cannot sleep; have indigestion, headache, neuralgia or periodic pains, it is because your nerves are weak. It is the lack of nerve force that makes the stomach, heart, lungs, etc., work imperfectly—become sick. Dr. Miles' Nervine cures the sick when it restores nerve strength, and puts the power behind the organs to do their work.

"Almost three years I suffered from nervousness, indigestion, and palpitation of the heart. I could not eat or sleep with comfort, or walk or talk without suffering. Altogether I was in a bad condition. My doctor did not seem to do me any good. I had tried so many remedies that I did not have much hope of any of them doing me any good. Dr. Miles' Nervine was suggested by a friend. I got relief from the first, and after a few days I felt like a new person. It not only relieved my heart and nerves, but has invigorated my whole system. I am very grateful because since I have stopped using it, I have had absolutely no return of my old trouble."

DISPUTE OVER WATER SUPPLY

Trinidad May Lose Its Supply of Water—Suit Brought.

TRINIDAD, March 15.—Judge E. C. Stimson, former Democratic candidate for governor of Colorado, yesterday afternoon came to Trinidad to file suit against this city on behalf of Mark T. Cox to prevent the city of Trinidad from diverting the water of the North Fork of the Animas river into the North Lake reservoir. At the same time a petition was filed by the local law firm of Northcutt and McHendrie in behalf of Charles Francis Adams alleging that the proposed point of diversion would damage the respondent's property in a sum exceeding $2,000 and he prays that the court transfer the case to the United States circuit court of Colorado. These are the suits mentioned some time ago anent the intention of Senator William A. Clark of Montana to prevent the city of Trinidad using the new reservoir at North Lake, in its extension of the waterworks service.

LESS CHAMPAGNE IS DRUNK

United States Imports of Sparkling Wine Show a Decrease.

From the Washington Post.

Apparently champagne drinking in the United States is on the wane. Both the quantity and value of that beverage imported into this country last year were less than in the preceding year and practically no greater than a dozen years ago.

This is only one of several surprising features of a statement issued by the bureau of statistics on the "ebb and flow of the commerce of the United States in 1906." The figures show that 334,727 dozen quarts of champagne and other sparkling wines were imported in 1906, valued at $5,855,125, while in the immediately preceding year the number of dozen quarts was 401,514, valued at $5,995,651.

Another surprising fact is that while the United States is one of the greatest coffee consuming countries in the world, yet it is actually exporting that product. The exports of domestic products include 21,518,494 pounds of green or raw coffee, valued at $5,576,592.

This is explained by the fact that Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands are customs districts of the United States, and that their exports to foreign countries are now included with the figures of exports from the various customs districts of this country.

It is stated that doubtless all of this coffee is the product of the island possessions referred to. In addition, 13,500,000 pounds of coffee of foreign production brought into this country are re-exported.

Still another curious feature of American commerce is that while this country produces three-fourths of the world's cotton, $11,000,000 worth of that product was imported last year, to say nothing of $1,000,000 worth of waste cotton. This product, however, is a different quality from that principally produced in the United States, being of the long and silky fiber, coming principally from Egypt.

While this country is the largest manufacturer of cotton goods, the importation of manufactures of this produce aggregated, in round figures, $70,000,000 in value, which was more than 50 per cent in excess of the value of these goods exported.

LEPERS IN COLOMBIA.

There are about 4,000 lepers in Colombia, or one to every 1,000 inhabitants. Most of them are now isolated. Cases are rarely found among the classes living with hygienic care.

TEST MILL IS A SUCCESS

Rock Carrying $4 Values Treated at Profit at Vindicator and Findley Companies' Joint Plant.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—It is declared that the joint test mill in the Lillie shaft house, constructed by the Vindicator and Findley companies to test the low grade dump and mine ores, has proven such a success that the companies will begin early this summer the construction of a plant that will be capable of handling 150 to 200 tons of ore a day. Rock carrying $4 values, it is said, can be treated at a nice profit with the Edwards roaster. At the present price of coal it only costs 50 cents a ton to treat ore [illegible] ployed and most satisfactory results are being obtained. The mill is under the direction of H. A. Shipman, who saw the process operate successfully in Australia and South Africa. Mr. Shipman was for several years manager of the Stratton's Independence, and has had every manner of experience in mining and mill treatment.

SNOW CAUSES BAD AIR

Carbonic Acid Gas Formed and Mine Work Hindered.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—The six inch fall of snow Tuesday caused bad or carbonic acid gas in a number of the mines of the camp for the past few days, especially on Gold and Raven hills.

While some mine would occasionally be closed down for the course of 24 hours on account of bad air, this winter has been especially free from this trouble. The tonnage of ore owing to the open winter has been exceptionally heavy and the mines generally have had better success than is usual during the winter months.

ORE SORTERS ARE LAID OFF

Mary McKinney Ore House Is Being Rearranged.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—Only a few ore sorters will be laid off at the Mary McKinney mine on Guyot hill, pending the rearrangement of the ore house. The Mary McKinney is shipping out 1,200 tons of ore a month, the average grade of which is very close to two ounces in gold to the ton. The ore is being mined principally from the fifth, sixth and seventh levels, a good many hundred feet from the shaft. A force of about 600 men is employed and the company is paying regular dividends. Considerable ore is now being taken from the Anaconda portion of the consolidated properties. The ore bodies are of good dimension and the mine was never in better physical condition than it is today.

STRIKE IN GOLD SOVEREIGN

Lowest Assay Obtained Is $80 to the Ton—Large Vein Low Grade in Union Bell.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 15.—One of the biggest strikes recorded in the Cripple Creek district for many years has been made in the Gold Sovereign property on Bull hill. It was while drifting northeasterly that a vein twelve feet wide was exposed at a depth of 1,100 feet. The miners were following a shoot four feet wide, when it suddenly showed a big increase in width, and the lowest assay obtained was $80 in gold to the ton. Regular shipments are being made from this property, and the ore has been netting from $30 to $40 in gold to the ton.

S. F. Bennett, operating on the Union Bell claim of the Index Gold Mining company on Gold hill, has opened up a large vein of low grade ore. The ore body was discovered at a depth of 200 feet, and gives a return of $6 in gold to the ton. It carries a small seam that shows a value as high as $12. The mineral is highly oxidized.

RETAIL TRADE IS ACTIVE

Stimulus of Spring Is Apparent in Volume of Business—Bradstreet's Report.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Spring business has further expanded, jobbing operations being maintained at a volume equal to or exceeding last year, while retail trade has felt the stimulus of the approach of Easter and the appearance of springlike weather. Increased complaints as to short stocks in some lines, notably dry goods, come from many points, and slow delivery is still complained of. Industry is active, except where, as in the flooded section of the Ohio valley, mill operations are restricted. While business is large, there is claimed to be no tendency to purchase beyond legitimate requirements, and the prospects favor active demand and a large turnover.

In the wool market firmness prevails, and in the centers in foreign grades, arrivals of which are very heavy.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending March 14, number 184, against 172 last week. Canadian failures for the week number 23 as against 21 last week.

SPRING TRADE SATISFACTORY

Shows Up Well Compared With Last Year's Business—Dun's Weekly Trade Review.

NEW YORK, March 15.—R. G. Dun and Company's Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say: Spring trade is making most satisfactory comparison with the volume at this time last year, except in a few sections where the weather is still unfavorable, and mercantile collections improve steadily despite the high money market. Leading industries have orders covering production well into the future, especially cotton factories and steel mills, while the output of pig iron with the month opened was close to the largest on record.

NEW EQUIPMENT ORDERED

Henry Adney Mine to Have a New Plant of Machinery.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—The new owners of the Henry Adney mine, on the west slope of Beacon hill, are shipping out several cars of ore a week from the stope 200 feet south of the shaft on the 600-foot level. The new machinery has been ordered and it can be expected to arrive in the district in the course of a few weeks. The new management will erect new and more commodious ore and shaft houses and will install skips with a view of mining on a more economical plan than heretofore. The tonnage will be vastly increased when the new plant is installed and the shaft will be sunk to the 1,000-foot point as quick as water conditions will permit.

NEW ORE BODIES OPENED

Development Work in Progress on the Portland.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—The big Portland mine is now shipping between 7,000 and 8,000 tons of ore every month, the average grade being around one ounce or better. A large amount of development work is now in progress and new ore bodies are being opened up. It is expected that the management will start to sink the shafts of one or more of the deep working bodies. The Portland mill is treating considerable custom ore which keeps the capacity up to the standard while the company is doing dead work on its own property.

FOREST QUEEN PROSPEROUS

Three Cars of Good Grade Ore Being Shipped Weekly.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 15.—Roach and company, operating on the Forest Queen mine on Ironclad hill, although doing a large amount of development work, are also shipping out from two to three cars of ore every week. The ore is giving returns ranging from $30 to $40 and is being mined at an approximate depth of 565 feet. The company is now driving a crosscut on the bottom level to get under the ore found 100 feet above. The crosscut will be 250 feet in length, now being driven in a northeasterly direction. The ore bodies found in this mine in some places measure twenty feet across.

PANIC HAS SUBSIDED

STOCK MARKET, HOWEVER, IS STILL FEVERISH.

Acute Uneasiness Changing to Semblance of Confidence—"Bargain Hunters" Appear.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Yesterday's presages of further disaster in the stock market were not fulfilled today. A violent rebound in prices occurred instead. The change in conditions was outlined before trading began here by the wide advances established in London. Prices opened here in consequence at spasmodic recoveries from the demoralized closing yesterday. This inviting level of prices attracted very large selling [illegible] indicating that some accounts were hastily closed out which had been carried through yesterday, presumably with difficulty. This realizing shook the market for a time and the violent advance caused a revival of acute uneasiness. But the support made itself effective again and it became evident that the panic conditions have subsided. The market remained feverish, but the violence of the fluctuations was in diminishing degree.

The appearance of brokers' offices this morning indicated the arrival in the field of a large class of buyers known in Wall street as "bargain hunters." It is estimated that purchases during the day in small lots by buyers of this kind aggregated several hundred thousand shares. Stocks thus bought go out of the street and appear no more until some distant period of inflation, and excited scenes when they are added again to the burden that market manipulators of a boom are obliged to care for. Buying of this class in such volume on a single day is rare and formed a positive supporting factor in the market. Much greater was its sentiment effect in reassuring holders of stocks that the frenzied selling of yesterday at the extreme decline was unnecessary [illegible].

This buying served to relieve the depression of the utter prostration of investment demand, which was one of the gloomiest portents of yesterday's panic-stricken flinging away of stocks. But the readjustment of sentiment was not achieved without an exertion of a large degree of main force in the market. This came in the shape of liberal buying orders distributed in the principal stocks for account of large banking houses as a result of consultations said to have been held last night after the demoralized closing of the market. The taking of such measures of support was considered essential to prevent the melting away of values from running to the lengths which might threaten the general credit situation.

A good effect was produced by the order issued by the secretary of the treasury, after the closing of the market yesterday, although some doubt existed as to the practical result to the money market to follow. Responses from holders of government bonds to offers for redemption, even on advantageous terms, are proverbially slow and reluctant. The limitation of the deposit of customs receipts with banks to places where no sub-treasury is situated practically nullified the measure in its effect on New York, both because there is a subtreasury here and because 70 per cent or more of all customs collections are made here, so that transfer to New York from other points of the proceeds of these deposits will prove of small account.

The promise is for a weak bank return tomorrow, if not a deficit below the legal requirements. The loss in cash is larger than the surplus as it existed last week, and it is believed by bankers that the loan contraction by stock market liquidation has been fully offset by the special requirements for credits in connection with today's settlements. Call money today was not so stiff as yesterday, however, and early effects are expected from the return of the payments made today to the money market. The market showed growing effect of the restoration of confidence and closed buoyant. Some of the day's advances, while of sensational proportions, did not restore the losses in the single day's selling of yesterday.

Bonds were active and irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,752,000.

United States new 4s advanced ¼ per cent on call.

GRAIN MARKETS WEAK

HEAVY LIQUIDATIONS CAUSE SHARP DECLINES.

Wheat Shows Strength at Opening, but Continues Only Short Time. Corn and Oats Weak.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Constant and heavy liquidation caused sharp declines in grain and provisions here today. At the close, May wheat was down 1 cent. At the opening, prices showed moderate advances because of covering by shorts who were induced to purchase by the improvements in the Wall Street situation. The firmness, however, continued but a short time. The market closed weak with prices only a shade above the low point. May wheat opened ⅛@⅜c to ⅜@½c higher, at 77½ to 77⅝, declined to 75⅞ and closed at 75¾@76.

The greater weakness was manifested in corn than in wheat. The close was weak. May corn opened unchanged to ⅛c higher, at 46¼ to 46⅜, declined to 44⅞ and closed at 44⅞@45.

Liquidation was general in the oats pit, especially by the holders of May contracts. The weather was considered excellent for spring work and there were said to be prospects of an increased movement. May oats opened a shade to ⅛c higher, at 40⅞ to 41@41⅛c, sold off to 39⅞ and closed at 40@40⅛.

Provisions advanced slightly at the opening on a fair demand from western packers. At the close May pork was off 32½ at $15.75; lard was down 15c at $8.07½; ribs were 15c lower at $8.50.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Colored Man Wanted to Marry in Spite of Objection.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

Ralph Stuart of "The Spoilers" is southern born, and always has a good "darky" story or two up his sleeve. Here is one that he brought back from his old home in Tennessee last summer:

An irrepressible son of the cotton fields lounged into the office of a justice of the peace one day and, addressing the justice, said:

"Judge, ah done want to get a mahage stiffcat."

"You mean a license, Albert. All right. What's the girl's name?"

"Mandy Payne," replied Albert, and the justice filled out the blank, after asking the necessary questions, handing it to the applicant with the remark: "That will cost you a dollar, Albert."

His face dropped and he replied: "A dollar, jedge, ah only done got 50 cents."

"Sorry, Albert, but the law says the fee is a dollar."

Albert scratched his head a moment, and then said: "Ah tell yo' what yo' do, jedge; yo' jest keep dat till tomorrow. I'll get de dollah and come back fo' it."

"All right, Albert, that will do. I'll keep it for you."

The next day Albert came back all right, and with a wide grin said: "Mornin' jedge! Heah's dat dollah, and ah want yo' to change de name on dat stiffcat."

"Well, whose name do you want on it now?"

"Liza Jones," said Albert, grinning audibly.

"All right. I'll make out a new one, but it will cost you another dollar."

"Holy Moses, jedge, ah ain't got no othah dollah. Ah only got de one yo' tole me to git yistiddy."

"Can't help it. If I issue a new license I'll have to have another dollar."

Albert was nonplused for a moment, then he said: "Jest keep dat one yo' got, jedge, till I come back again tomorrow."

The next day he returned with an air of settled conviction and said: "Jedge, yo' jest gimme dat stiffcat wid Mandy Payne on it, like ah tole yo' fi' de fust place. Ah done looked dem niggahs ovah agin an' ah doan's see no dollah's difference between 'em."

Those fortunate enough to be present at the Oles concert last evening enjoyed one of the finest entertainments ever given in this city. Mr. Oles possesses talent of the highest order, and his name will in time rank with the world's greatest masters. In his rendering of Ole Bull's nocturne, Opus 9, and Paganini's "Wonder," he proved himself an artist. Scarcely less praiseworthy was the "Mystery," his own composition. Simple, yet incomparably sweet, the "Swanee River" charmed even the most untutored ear. His selections from De Beriot and Ernst were very difficult, and the audience was held spellbound to the last.—Daily Reporter, Petoskey, Mich.

A REMARKABLE CLAIRVOYANT

SUCH HAS PROF. J. J. JOHNSON PROVEN HIMSELF.

World's Greatest Life Reader—Spirit Medium and Astrologist—This Great Man Stands Without an Equal in This Country as a Mind-Reader—A Wonderful Man's Marvelous Gifts.

ALL THE WORLD IS SEEKING LIGHT ON OCCULT FORCES, but Professor Johnson is a child of Nature's great gifts and holds this divine gift as a sacred trust. Think of a man who can see your whole life as an open book; his extraordinary powers enable him to read human life with unerring accuracy. IF YOU HAVE BEEN DISAPPOINTED by others claiming this power and deceived by their work, do not get discouraged, as there are impostors and frauds in all walks of life, and the mind-reader profession IS NO EXCEPTION. To those that are skeptical about the claims of Professor Johnson, he desires to say that he will positively make no charge unless you find him superior to all others. Can anything be fairer?

Why waste money with pretenders when you can be assured of success by consulting the best for less money? Without asking a question, without any previous knowledge and having no natural means of knowing who you are, whence or for what you came, he tells your name, age, occupation, where you live, the number of your house and the street you live in. He tells you names of your friends and enemies, who is true and who is false. Tells whom and when you will marry, giving names, dates, facts and localities, taking no fee in advance, accepting none unless satisfaction is given.

Ladies and gentlemen can visit Professor Johnson without fear of having their confidence betrayed, as he considers his business a sacred trust. Professor Johnson can be consulted daily at the Las Tejas apartments, 110 North Tejon street. Hours, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily. Sundays, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.; one flight up; reception room 1.

Ask your grocer for Alpine High Patent Flour. It is the best.

PHYSICIANS SAY

It requires seventeen times more energy to climb up stairs than to walk the same distance on the level. An extension telephone in your home will save stair climbing at a surprisingly low cost. Get rates and particulars from Main 327.
